PROGRESS OF EVEREST PARTY STILL UNKNOWN

NEW DELHI (AP)—Backward Himalayan communications hid the whereabouts today of a team of British mountaineers trying to scale the unconquered crest of Mount Everest, world's tallest peak. Mountaineering experts here speculated the team may already have conquered—or failed to top—the 29,000-foot peak.

Col. John Hunt and his 14-man team reached their base camp 18,000 feet up the mountain more than four weeks ago. Their final climb was due to begin May 15. The team's only means of communicating with the world is by relays of native runners.

In a broadcast to the expedition Thursday night, the Indian government radio warned of increasing cold in the Everest region and temperatures of 20 degrees below zero.

Bennett Backs Money Reform

Big Audience Hears Premier
Support Financial Policies

By GORDON FORBES, Times Political Reporter
Premier W. A. C. Bennett, fighting persistent hecklers in his record Royal Theatre audience (1,500 inside, 700 turned away and 300 listening from outside), Thursday night came out in support of Social Credit federal monetary reform principles.

The premier made the statement in reply to a question put by Oak Bay Tory Frank Partridge who was roundly booed. "What are your own personal views on the monetary theories and techniques of Douglas Social Credit?" he asked.

After considerable build up, the premier said he believed in the Social Credit principles. The basic federal principle was monetary reform, he said.

HECKLERS IN ACTION
"But we're not a funny money crowd. We're the soundest party in the whole land," cried Premier Bennett.

Premier Bennett first said he would have been disappointed if Mr. Partridge hadn't asked that question.

He started to say this was not a provincial matter and some one shouted:

"Don't sidestep."
"I'm going to answer, don't rush me," replied the premier. "We know these are only planted political trick questions, but I'll answer them."

"Get on with it," a heckler said.

"You're just like the opposition in the House," came back the premier. "I smile at them and they get mad."

"Answer the question," the heckler insisted.

"Social Credit believes in fair treatment to all and special privileges to none," started the premier again.

"That's Socialism," the same heckler shouted.

He explained there must be enough medium of exchange to distribute properly the production of industry. Social Credit, he said, thinks it's ridiculous to see farm produce burned, warehouses filled with stock which can't be sold, and mass unemployment.

"All we need is to have enough purchasing power in the hands of the public," he said.

It is all wrong, he felt, that the country has purchasing power during wars but not in peace time.

"We oppose that. We say there must be enough exchange in the country. We're not a funny-money crowd."

MORE BOOS
Mr. Partridge tired of the premier's explanation and said he "objected."

"You can object as much as you like," snapped the premier. "I've got the floor. Can't take it, eh?"

"What party does Partridge represent?" asked a man in the front row.

"He the man who beat Anscomb," said the premier. This brought on more boos.

New Doukhobor Plan Announced by Govt.

Get Tough Plan for Lawbreaking
Sect Features Seven-Point Program

Adoption of a firm "one law for all" policy to deal with lawbreaking sects of B.C.'s Doukhobor population was announced today by Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

"The days of fooling around with the unlawful Doukhobors are over," Premier Bennett said.

Here are the highlights of the government policy:

1—Extension of the franchise to Doukhobors (at the fall session).

2—Resale of land to orthodox and independent Doukhobors—lost in the 30's through unemployment of mortgages.

3—Cancellation of drivers' licenses of lawbreaking Doukhobors.

4—Recognition of Doukhobor form of marriage, which is merely a declaration before the elders of the community.

5—Establishment of a continuing commission in July on Doukhobor affairs, as announced in the Legislature, to work with the existing consultative committee.

6—All Doukhobor children to be compelled to attend school.

7—Doukhobors must register births, marriages and all vital statistics.

Premier Bennett also announced Attorney-General Robert Bonner has asked the federal government to reimburse B.C.

Ontario Tornado Kills 5; Damage May Be in Millions

Children Sing in Loyalty to Commonwealth Ties

Sixteen hundred youthful voices were raised in praise of Queen and country this morning on Legislative Building Lawn. Attending IOOE Empire Day services were representative groups from each school, sea and air cadets, Scouts, Cubs and Guides. Three bands, all youngsters, attended. Ceremony ended in IOOE flag-bearing parade to monument of Queen Victoria. (See story, Page 15.) (Times Photo by Strickland.)

Dulles Puts Damper On Big 4 Conference

Red Aggression
Will Block Any
High-Level Parley

WASHINGTON (UP)—

President Eisenhower's unity-promoting conference with British and French leaders next month will not lead to a Big-Four meeting with Russia while the Communists are promoting aggression, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles made clear today.

Dulles chilled hopes of at least British Prime Minister Winston Churchill for a later Big-Power conference with Russia in talking to reporters at a news conference in New Delhi, India.

"I doubt that any important results could come out of a high-level conference which included the leaders of Soviet Russia so long as the Soviet bloc is promoting war and aggression in Korea, against Laos and in Indo-China, and as long as in Europe they refuse to withdraw occupation troops from a small, inoffensive country like Austria," Dulles said.

CONCRETE EVIDENCE
That is the theme that has been voiced by Mr. Eisenhower. The President wants concrete evidence of good faith and actions to promote world peace on the part of Russia before sitting down with Soviet leaders.

Administration officials said Mr. Eisenhower's primary purpose in getting together with British and French leaders in Bermuda next month will be to forge three-power unity where dangerous splits are developing.

He wants to harmonize American-British-French views on key world issues.

The administration is dead set against risking a Big-Four conference in which the Russians could exploit Allied disunity and confusion.

From now until the Big-Three meeting sometime after June 15 the Russians will have an opportunity to prove with acts—such as ending the Korean impasse—that a Big-Four meeting would help promote world peace.

The administration's cautious stand against advance commitments for a meeting with the

RUSSIANS NOT HOPEFUL OF EARLY BIG 4 PARLEY

MOSCOW (UP)—Diplomatic sources appeared optimistic today over the possibility of an eventual Big-Power meeting that would include the Soviet Union.

However, they expressed doubt the meeting will be held in the near future.

Observers said that as long as President Eisenhower insists on fulfillment of certain conditions it is not likely Russia will agree to take part in a meeting.

(Mr. Eisenhower said in Washington last week he wanted concrete evidence of good faith from Moscow before agreeing to sit with Kremlin leaders.)

(Last April 16, Mr. Eisenhower told the American Society of Newspaper Editors in an address on U.S. foreign policy that the Soviet peace offensive should be backed up with deeds and not words.)

Editorials in Pravda and Izvestia already have indicated the Kremlin would not accept an invitation to a meeting with the western powers as long as any conditions were set forth.

Brief Visit

EXTERNAL AFFAIRS Minister Lester B. "Mike" Pearson, and Mrs. Pearson, spent 15 minutes at Patricia Bay Airport today in stopover on way to Seattle. While picture was made as he relaxed in TCA aircraft, he expressed optimism in outcome of Big Three conference. (See story Page 15)

$30 Pay Boost, Other Benefits Reported Gained by B.C. Seamen

VANCOUVER, B.C. (BUP)—

The AFL Seafarers' International Union expressed jubilation today at an eleventh-hour agreement that averted a strike by 700 seamen against three major steamship companies serving the B.C. coast.

Terms were not disclosed, but a source said the union gained $30 monthly pay boost, retroactive to June 1, 1952, and won its long fight for union security and overtime benefits.

The agreement was hammered out in Montreal at a meeting of union officials and representatives of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Steamships, Ltd. A strike had been scheduled to start at midnight Saturday, and more than 20 coastal steamers, which carry passengers and supplies to Vancouver Island and up-coast points, would have been idled.

The union withdrew its strike deadline after receiving word from Montreal that "a mutually satisfactory" agreement had been reached.

Terms of the settlement will be released upon receipt of official papers by mail from Montreal. The union scheduled a membership meeting for Monday night, when the seamen involved in the dispute will vote on the settlement.

The companies had announced "last sailings" Wednesday—but prepared at once to revert to normal operations.

Union and company representatives said they had reached "a common goal on the terms of settlement."

Deck and engineering employees of all three companies, and stewards employed by Union Steamships, had sought an across-the-board increase of $50 a month.

Federal Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier was instrumental in getting the union and companies together to patch up their differences.

World Affairs Parley Topic Says N.Z. Premier

OTTAWA (CP)—The June conference of Commonwealth heads in London probably will be concerned mainly with world affairs generally, Prime Minister S. G. Holland of New Zealand said today.

On a flying visit to Canada on his way to the Coronation and the conference, Mr. Holland expressed the hope the meeting would serve to "clarify" Commonwealth views on a number of world issues.

He talked to newspaper men at a press conference sandwiched in between the laying of a wreath at the National War Memorial and a meeting with Transport Minister Chevrier.

He cited developments in connection with the Korean truce negotiations and the Southeast Asia situation generally as two topics calling for discussion.

Commonwealth countries including Canada recently made representations to the United States on the way the truce negotiations were being handled by United States officials, Prime Minister St. Laurent said here Wednesday Canada expressed hope there would be no substantial departure from the terms of a United Nations resolution dealing with prisoner exchange.

Mr. Holland indicated that problems of Commonwealth trade would not be prime issues at the meeting.

Area One of Disaster Claxton Informed

SARNIA, Ont. (BUP)—Troops patrolled debris-filled streets to prevent looting today as a tornado that cut a 70-mile swath of death and destruction whirled east over Lake Ontario and dissipated into thunder showers. There were at least five known dead and 200 injured in southwestern Ontario and eastern Michigan. Thirty-nine persons remained hospitalized, 15 here and 24 in neighboring Port Huron, Mich.

(Meanwhile Acting Prime Minister Brooke Claxton was asked today to declare tornado-stricken southwestern Ontario a national disaster area and allocate funds of torn homes, barns and stores.)

The request was wired to Ottawa from London, Ont., by Harold White, Progressive Conservative member of parliament for Middlesex riding. He suggested that part of a $1,500,000 fund for national disasters be set aside for tornado aid, particularly hard-hit Sarnia.

The howling black funnel was the third tornado to hit into Canada since weather records were started 75 years ago. The Weather Bureau warned that a new storm centre over Kansas "might very well" turn into a second twister but doubted whether it could rip north of the border.

Sarnia, a city of 40,000 and the country's biggest oil refining centre, took the brunt of the tornado after it leapt from the St. Clair River and struck the downtown area with full fury.

A few minutes earlier, it had skipped across flat farmlands in "sketchy" pattern, picking up the rear end of a freight train and shook it like a toy, and chewed up a residential section of Port Huron nine blocks wide and 16 blocks long.

The twister roared through here in three minutes, injuring 100 persons, and barreled north-eastward to kill a man, his daughter and an elderly spinster in the London area. One man was killed and another 100 persons were injured in the Port Huron district.

Property damage couldn't be estimated accurately. A police officer said it could amount to "any figure between $2,000,000 and $10,000,000."

Sarnia Placed Under Military Law

Sarnia was under military law. The air force sent 100 men from the Centralia base and the army dispatched 100 soldiers from Camp Ipperwash to aid in the emergency. Another 100 soldiers from London were expected later today to guard gaping storefronts.

Acting Mayor Clayton A. Saylor read the Riot Act shortly before midnight to clear panicked citizens from the rubble-strewn streets. He said the storm was "one of the worst disasters that has ever hit this part of the country."

The twister hit with devastating suddenness at the dinner hour.

Simon Thompson, 50, Reeve of East William Township, and his six-year-old daughter, Dorothy, were killed by flying debris as their home was smashed at the hamlet of Springbank, about 25 miles northeast of London.

Sarah McIntosh, an 80-year-old spinster was killed in her yard in the same hamlet. Two nephews escaped.

No fatalities were reported here but troops, citizens and police from Ontario and Michigan worked all night to clear away the rubble. Front and Christina Streets, the main thoroughfares, were opened up early this morning by crews that toiled all night with bulldozers and shovels under the glare of emergency floodlights.

The storm missed multi-million-dollar refineries owned by Imperial Oil and Canadian Oil companies. The Polymer Corporation, the world's largest synthetic rubber producer, also escaped damage.

Eyewitness Describes Chaos

By R. J. ANDERSON
SARNIA, Ont. (CP)—I picked my way along Sarnia's Front Street Thursday night.

In the midnight darkness six hours after a tornado had struck this bustling industrial city, it was an adventure.

In the eerie light of flares and portable floodlights, steel-helmeted workmen were silhouetted as they labored to clear away the worst of the debris.

Occasionally masonry would crash to the pavement as demolition crews tore away a wall or projection that threatened to collapse.

It was so quiet. There were no shouts of workmen—just the crash of a cornice or a metal sign being torn away.

At midnight the roadway and pavement were all but cleared. The volunteers had done a quick job of piling the rubble for the trucks to cart away.

Glass crunched underfoot. There was not an unbroken window for three blocks.

Gaping windows of evacuated apartments above wrecked stores spoke mutely of 30 seconds of tornado destruction. No doubt the interiors were ruined—armed soldiers prevented entry to make sure.

I walked down the centre of the street—as far as possible from tottering walls on either side. Every hundred feet or so I was required to present credentials to prove I ought to be where Sarnia's citizens were prohibited from entering.

The Vendome Hotel at Front and Cromwell was a ruin. The roof and top floor had been torn away. Every window had not merely been broken—the frames had been blown away clear to the red-brick facing.

Streams of water ran from what had been a doorway of a large furniture store. The automatic sprinkler system had gone into operation during the storm. The stock seemed ruined.

So it went for four blocks, perhaps the hardest hit area of the city. Metal street signs had been cut off as though by a sharp knife, so clean was the break. Traffic-sign supports were bent. Power lines—dead now with hydro service gone—overhung the street.

It was a ghastly sight.

To this observer, the official estimate of property damage of $3,000,000 looks much too low.

19 Injured in London Area

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The tornado which spun through southwestern Ontario Thursday night injured at least 19 persons—some severely—in the London area and caused considerable property damage.

Doctors and nurses at St. Joseph's Hospital here said some of the injured were so badly hurt that they could not be X-rayed. Others were rushed immediately to emergency operating rooms.

The injured were driven from the stricken areas by doctors, undertakers and private automobiles.

One critically hurt woman, Mrs. Annie Thompson of Parkhill, was not aware early today that her husband and six-year-old daughter were killed in the storm.

Mrs. Thompson's husband, Simon, 50, reeve of East William Township, was one of five persons killed in Ontario during the twister. Her daughter, Dorothy, was also killed in the family's rubble home at Springbank. Another daughter, Ruth, 13, was brought to hospital here with a possible skull injury.

OPERATING ROOM NURSE FEATURED IN WEEKEND

Victoria's Royal Jubilee Hospital has the place of honor in Weekend Magazine appearing in the Victoria Times tomorrow.

The main article in the magazine is a photo story entitled "Operating-Room Nurse," featuring Doreen Richmond of the hospital staff and her work as an instrument and "scrub" nurse in the operating room at the big institution.

HUGE CROWD HEARS BENNETT SUPPORT MONEY REFORM

(Continued from Page 1). Chairman Ald. Skillings about this time brought the meeting to a close by explaining to hecklers, who appeared prepared to stay the night, that the workmen had to clean up the theatre and the meeting had to be over by 11 p.m. It was then 10:45.

"You're a piker," concluded a frustrated heckler. Victoria gave Premier Bennett the largest meeting of the election campaign, and at the same time came up with the most persistent heckling yet experienced by the Premier.

The large crowd outside the theatre, listening to the address via a public address system, couldn't hear the verbal exchanges with the audience. But they heard the premier shoot back at his questioners. Premier Bennett, speaking in a Liberal stronghold, delivered the most restrained political speech he has for some time, and at times the audience reaction was similarly restrained.

But he was given a 25-second cheering ovation when he completed his address and obviously had the majority of the big crowd on his side. Tenacious hecklers, however, had their licks during a 45-minute question period which was finally closed off by chairman Ald. Waldo Skillings.

The hecklers had sneered at some of the premier's remarks during his address, but saved most of their attack for the closing question period. First indication that Premier Bennett was due for some heckling was early in his talk when he accused the opposition of heaping a tirade of abuse on the government.

"They called us everything from Hitler, to Mussolini, to Stalin," Premier Bennett retorted. "That wasn't enough," shouted an elderly heckler.

"Ah, my friend, they (the people) will give us enough on June 9," shot back the premier and received great applause from the audience. Another heckler soon after asked the premier why the government didn't go through with its plan to impose a 10 per cent tax on mining and logging.

At this point chairman Ald. Skillings jumped up and told the man to save his questions for the end of the meeting. "Nothing doing—he's lying," replied the heckler.

Shouts of "Sit down" and "Shut up" came from the audience.

If You're TIRED ALL THE TIME Everybody gets a bit run-down now and then, tired-out, heavy-headed, and maybe bothered by backaches. Perhaps nothing seriously wrong, just a temporary toxic condition caused by excess acids and wastes. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys, and so help restore their normal action of removing excess acids and wastes. Then you feel better, sleep better, work better. Get Dodd's Kidney Pills now. Look for the blue box with the red band at all drug stores. You can depend on Dodd's.

The premier noted government members once during the opposition attacks. This brought hoots from some sections of the audience and cries of "Oh, oh, oh." Premier Bennett accused the opposition of using the Legislature as a political sounding board. Opposition members, he said, refused to get on with the people's business and made the same speeches 27 times on the Throne speech and budget debates.

BIG MEMBERSHIP "Social Credit has more members than all other parties combined," claimed the premier. "Members of old line parties are flocking to us, and we have the right wing of the CCF."

"Yeah, two-bit ones," shouted someone from the floor. The premier drew an ovation when he said hecklers didn't bother him.

"We have them everywhere. It doesn't matter," he assured the meeting. He aroused the ire of one of the more persistent hecklers when he asked if anyone in the audience would stand and oppose the Social plan for paying a legitimate 50 per cent of school construction costs.

"Sure, it's all coked," came a voice from the audience. The premier went on to explain fully the Rolston Formula and asked the hecklers if they were still opposed.

"Yes, yes," came the reply. "There's one man has spoken three times down there," remarked the premier. When he was interrupted further along in his explanation, the premier said:

"Oh, how my friends are afraid to hear the true story." At one point chairman Ald. Skillings suggested a heckler pick up Sacred literature on the way out and not waste the time of the meeting.

"Let's have a little British fair play," he suggested. During the question period, a man tried to put the premier on the spot by asking, "what is Social Credit?"

But the premier won that round by saying: "It's the opposite to Socialism." The crowd applauded. The questioner persisted, but his complaint about the question not being properly answered was lost in the noise.

Then a woman in the balcony got up and said Victoria Scored candidate Mrs. Lydia Arsens, in a brief speech at the opening of the meeting, had misquoted the Bible.

Flash Fire Guts UBC Building

VANCOUVER (CP)—A flash fire that ripped through a research building on the campus of the University of British Columbia Thursday destroyed thousands of dollars worth of laboratory equipment and important records.

The blaze broke out when a vial of ether being used by a chemist became ignited. The chemist, Zigmund Uptis, 30, received facial burns and singed eyebrows.

A fireman required oxygen treatment at the university medical centre after inhaling fumes from smouldering chemicals.

The main research job affected by the fire involves studies sponsored by Sherritt-Gordon Mines, Ltd., on a new method for working on extraction of base metals.

Sea Cadets Open Drive for Funds

Nearly 200 boys of the Rainbow Sea Cadet Corps will embark on a campaign tonight to raise money in a door-to-door canvass to support their activities.

Sponsored by the Navy League of Canada, the Sea Cadets need funds to carry out their training program, maintain their headquarters in Esquimalt and pay their taxes. They receive no city grant. Further canvasses will be made May 26 and May 29.

Wrenettes will assist in collections. Further canvasses will be made May 26 and May 29.

Canadian Auto Factories Hit

Strikes in U.S. Will Shut Down Studebaker May 28; Others Worried

WINDSOR, Ont. (BUP) — Strikes at United States supplier plants were threatening most of the Canadian automobile industry with shutdowns today.

Russians jibed with views of key members of Congress. They applauded the idea of Big Three talks as a starter but warned against giving the Russians a ready-made opportunity to widen existing differences between Washington, London and Paris.

TEMPORARY CLOUD

Thursday's sudden fall of the French government headed by Premier Rene Mayer cast a temporary cloud over the Big Three conference plans which had been announced less than four hours before. American officials had hoped timing of the conference announcement would tide Mayer over a government crisis that had been foreseen here for several days.

American officials are now hoping that a new French government can be formed quickly, and that experienced leaders will be chosen who can attend the meeting in Bermuda without requiring a long postponement. They brushed aside any suggestion the Big Three talks might have to be called off because of Mayer's political defeat.

NEW PREMIER SOUGHT

PARIS (UPI) — President Vincent Auriol sought a new French premier today to replace the fallen government of Rene Mayer and represent France at the Bermuda Big Three conference next month.

Mayer's right-of-centre cabinet — the 18th French postwar government — was toppled in the National Assembly Thursday. The lawmakers refused his demand for special powers to drastically slash the budget and revive France's flagging economy. His fall came after he announced he had agreed to meet with President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Winston Churchill in a historic three-power parley about June 15.

Auriol this morning started a day-long series of talks with party leaders and a string of former French premiers in an effort to find a new leader to make the trip to Bermuda.

"FINAL" PROPOSAL

MUNSAN, Korea (UPI) — The text of the United Nations "final" proposal for ending the long war prisoner deadlock was believed to be in this Allied truce camp today.

Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, chief UN negotiator, will present the proposal to the Communists at nearby Panmunjom next Monday when the eight-day recess in the truce talks ends.

Harrison was still in Tokyo conferring with Gen. Mark W. Clark and negotiators here refused to comment on terms of the proposal which is expected to resemble the Indian plan adopted by the UN General Assembly in New York last December.

While the truce celebration awaited the return Saturday or Sunday of Harrison, the Allied camp watched for developments in places far from Panmunjom. The United States, Britain and other Allied nations involved in the Korean fighting held consultations in Washington and New York on the next move.

Little Boys Stand on Big (Ugh) Snake

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Two Malay boys cutting rattan near their home Thursday discovered that a "tree trunk" they were standing on actually was a 35-foot python, the newspaper Majlis reported today.

The boys ran back to the village crying that they had seen a "dragon snake with bulging red eyes." A council of village leaders decided that the huge snake should be killed.

But the next day those selected for the extermination job reported they had been warned in dreams that the python was a "protector" and its spirit would wreak vengeance on the village if it were killed, the newspaper said.

Ont. Man Hunted In Sex Slaying Of 3-Year-Old

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — A 29-year-old railway gang cook was sought today across Northern Ontario by police who say they want him for the criminal assaulting and slaying of a three-year-old girl here.

The almost nude body of Susan Hutchins was found lying in undergrowth on the city's outskirts Thursday night, more than 24 hours after she had been left by her mother, Mrs. Frank Hutchins, in the care of Mervey James Diger, a 19-year-old boy, when she returned and the child had disappeared.

Police began a search for him and the girl Wednesday night. The child's body was discovered by three children.

Dr. I. Joyal, coroner, said there was no doubt that the girl had been criminally assaulted.

NO SELL-OUT FOR CROWNING

LONDON (AP) — With only 11 days to go before Coronation Day, the signs are there'll be an estimated 2,000 or 3,000 empty seats along the procession route the Queen will take from Westminster Abbey to Buckingham Palace.

The gaps in the crowds will be where they hurt most—in the stands and balconies set aside for overseas visitors bringing dollars to Britain.

Unless there's a last-minute rush from abroad—unlikely because of transportation difficulties—the June Coronation will not be the sell-out the authorities hoped for months ago.

Canada Officials Arrive at Scene Of Coronation

LIVERPOOL (CP) — Laden with the bulk of Canada's official Coronation delegation, the Empress of Scotland arrived today at Liverpool, disembarking her load of Coronation visitors for transfer to London-bound trains.

The official Canadian government's delegation included Trade Minister Howe, George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader; Works Minister Fournier, Wishart Robertson, Senate government leader, and their wives.

Also aboard was Gen. H. D. G. Crear, aide-de-camp general to the Queen, who was scheduled to dash off to a tailor's appointment immediately on arrival in London.

The rest of the passenger list read like a Canadian Who's Who. Included were J. J. Bowlen and W. J. Patterson, lieutenant-governors of Alberta and Saskatchewan; J. W. McConnell, past president of the Montreal Star; Mayor F. J. Hume of Vancouver and Leon J. Raymond, clerk of the Canadian House of Commons. Most were accompanied by their wives.

U.S. Floods Drive Many From Homes

NEW ORLEANS (UP) — A weather station at Old Town Bay 11 miles from Lake Charles reported the Calcasieu crested Lake Charles today where volunteer workers struggled to hold back the water from their homes.

The mammoth tide of the Calcasieu River and the critical condition of the dikes threatened a new crisis in the south-west Louisiana area where 27,000 families had already been driven from their homes.

Workers fought with bulldozers and sandbags to hold back the river in a man-against-the-elements contest.

Another river crest, on the Sabine in Texas, bore down on the gulf coast city of Orange. One main levee in the Sabine dike system crumbled Thursday, forcing 750 persons to flee from the village of Deweyville.

Some 1,800 families were evacuated during the night in the Lakes Charles area. The flood spread over thousands of acres, forming one 1,250-square-mile area into an almost solid lake, causing damage to crops, homes and livestock to soar close toward the $298,000,000 mark, and leaving a total of 12 persons dead in three days.

The muddy water swirled over all but the parking area for planes at the Alexandria air force base and cascaded through the town two miles away. At Jennings, La., on the eastern side of the flood, the Cajuns swarmed to high ground.

Audition Wednesday For Heidt Show

Many Victorians will be given an audition by a Heidt scout next Wednesday at 7 at radio station CJVI.

From among them, three will be selected to appear on stage with Heidt here on June 3, at Memorial Arena, and possibly be chosen to travel with his organization on its current tour. The Heidt organization is interested in all types of entertainment. Those wishing to try out must be over 14 years of age, however, and group acts must be limited to four.

Good Samaritans in Action

THE RALLY OF FRIENDS, neighbors and complete strangers that marked the search for a lost youngster in the Metochin area was a warming experience that should not go unnoticed.

As one of the anxious parents observed, while the hunt was still in progress, "I can see that people really have a heart when it comes to a lost child." And the mother's comment, "I have never seen so many nice people in all my life," sums up a world of gratitude.

The incident gives the lie to those who declare that life in this modern era has lost its neighborly touch. As a community the people of Greater Victoria and the surrounding districts have been quick to come to the relief of others in time of emergency. They gave freely of their money for flood relief in the Fraser Valley, in Manitoba, in Britain and the Netherlands. Other tragedies and disasters, far and near, have found a ready response in this community.

But it is one thing to give money or supplies, quite another to don old clothes and search through tangled brush in a night-long rainstorm. At such times generosity is not a bit of helpfulness that makes men and women carry on. The worry, fatigue and discomfort become personal sacrifices that put the kindly act on a brother-keeper basis—a true example of the good Samaritan in action.

That the search in this case was successful adds the final touch of satisfaction to the event. Delay might well have proved tragic. The ready and sustained response to a call of distress meant the difference between success and failure, and all persons concerned are entitled to full congratulations.

A Preliminary Heat

AS INTIMATED IN THE ANNOUNCEMENTS, the proposed top-level meeting of Britain, France and the United States will be viewed as the prelude to a still more important gathering—one which includes Russia.

The preliminary talks are necessary, for it has become ever more evident in recent weeks that sizeable differences exist in the thinking of the western allies on certain major problems. The Far East presents some of the outstanding examples.

Britain, which recognized Red China many months ago, is inclined to a "softer" approach to Asiatic questions than are many United States representatives. Churchill, for instance, suggested a little more take might be advisable for the UN spokesmen in the give-and-take at Pannunjon, when he cautioned against outright rejection of Russian peace proposals.

Britain, too, has maintained a certain amount of trade with the Peiping regime, in the face of criticism in the United States, which still officially supports the Nationalist government of Chiang Kai-shek, now in exile on Formosa. Likewise, there has been no British urge to carry the Korean war to the borders of China or Russia, or beyond. This is in contrast to certain influential opinion in the United States which favors an all-out Korean war at the risk of extending it into a major conflict.

The question of non-strategic shipments to China also has separated the partners from time to time. And there is a good deal to be clarified in regard to the ultimate aims of Far East policy by the two English-speaking allies.

Nation and Province

CAPT. D. J. PROUDFOOT, whose experience as a Liberal member of the legislature equips him to discuss such issues, has pointed to one of the facts Premier Bennett apparently chooses to ignore in his election propaganda on a better deal from Ottawa.

The premier, Capt. Proudfoot notes, has contended that the federal government takes $239,000,000 a year from this province in income and corporation taxes and returns only $42,000,000. But by the former Liberal member's figuring, British Columbia receives back $262,000,000, plus the $42,000,000 returned to the province under the tax rental agreement. The larger figure covers works and services provided by the federal government for Canadians west of the Rockies.

Obviously B.C. derives direct benefit from federal spending in this part of Canada over and above the actual funds transferred back to the province under the agreement. Mr. Bennett would do well to admit that to audiences he is currently addressing.

He might also remind them that, as he knows, British Columbia can, if it wishes, withdraw from the federal-provincial scheme and collect its own income tax. That will not, of

With Which We Agree

MRS. MAY CAMPBELL, CCF candidate, spoke across party lines when she told guests at a recent tea that more women should take part in political life.

Far too few feminine voices are raised in law-making chambers in this country, although those which have been heard have usually made valuable contributions to the debate.

It is not axiomatic, of course, that a woman should be elected to public office solely because she is a woman. It is desirable to have the opinion of the distaff side, but the candidate cannot expect support merely as a representative of her sex. The point of any argument on this subject seems to be that women of particular abilities are as valuable as men of particular abilities in legislatures and parliaments.

Last year Victoria was given the opportunity to choose on this basis of ability when the city voters sent members to the House. Of 12 candidates, four were women. The same result was found in the list of those successful in seeking office in this constituency, and the excellence of the feminine member breeds some measure of confidence that similar wisdom will be shown by the voters next month. Nancy Hodges is still available to speak with the voice of Victoria women.

The House of the Master

FLORENCE—The most pathetic figures we have met in Europe were two middle-aged ladies from Denver, Colorado. After weeks of traveling, all scheduled by the hour, they had tottered on their aching feet into the art galleries of Florence.

They said they were "drinking in" Europe's ancient culture and by now they were obviously in an advanced state of innocent intoxication. But, they admitted, it was hard work.

They had seen everything in Europe. I gathered—everything, that is, of cultural importance. Day after day, week after week, they had been guided through museums, had bought a library of books and pamphlets and could recite from memory every painting and statue of Michelangelo (which doubtless was more than he could do). Now, after three months of drinking it in, they were ready to return home and they confessed that they were longing for a decent cup of coffee and a slice of apple pie.

I MUST confess that I lack the cultural appetite of the ladies from Denver. Against all their well-meant pressure, I resolved not to visit a single art gallery in Florence which, I gather, holds more art than any other spot in the world. Promising my American friends that I would follow their footsteps, admit every painting and drink in the whole works I sneaked off and hired a horse and rig to drive on the hills above the city.

All the culture I drank in that afternoon consisted of a grunt or two from the driver, a ferocious old pirate with moustaches a foot long, and an occasional sigh from his horse. And, of course, on returning to the hotel, I told the ladies from Denver that I had seen everything.

ANYWAY, Florence did not excite me. It looks magnificent from a distance. Close up, it is just an old town of narrow streets, a few new bridges across the Arno where Dante was supposed to brood (the Germans having blown up the old ones) and some of the most hideous architecture I have ever seen.

I say that with all the disrespect of ignorance. Not possessing a three-month culture like the ladies from Denver, I could only wonder how the artists of the Renaissance could labor for centuries to produce such a calculated monstrosity as the famous cathedral and the top-heavy, cock-eyed clock-tower with its iron leonard (or is it a lion?).

I drank it all in at a glance and repaired to the great square where at least a thousand American tourists were sitting at tables, culture-drunk. There I fell into talk with an Italian graduate of Oxford, who was proud that he had once been exiled by Mussolini. That interested me more than the cathedral.

IN 1937, he said, he and a few of his friends had been telling stories about the Duce over a bottle of wine in this square. Perhaps they had drunk too much. Perhaps the stories were a little too rough. Anyway, some Fascist students objected, a fight ensued, the tables were overturned and next day the graduate of Oxford was tried for the crime of insulting the Italian government; tried, naturally, without ever appearing in court or being told the charge against him. The police kindly attended to all details and packed him off to Tripoli.

"But," he told me, "it was not like jail. I worked or not as I pleased, as a waiter in a hotel. As long as I was home by nine at night the police never bothered me. What you foreigners don't understand is that the Italian dictatorship was mild, like honey, compared to Hitler's. In fact, in many ways it was a joke. And government is still a joke here, if you have a sense of humor."

TO illustrate this bland remark, he said he owned a scooter, one of those little motorcycles which no Italian would think of living without. For three years he had not paid the legal license on this machine and most of his friends were in the same position. If the police asked about his license plate he replied that he had left it at home that day. Maybe he would be caught at last and fined, but the fine would be small and he would save money.

He explained that he was a businessman and no businessman in Italy could afford to pay all his taxes. It was necessary to play tricks with the government on income and all other taxes, where possible, or otherwise "a businessman would be ruined."

This statement, if true, might appear to a guileless North American as marking the most alarming fact in most of Europe today—that is, the people's lack of confidence in their own institutions, their quiet undermining of the state. But the Florentine businessman reassured me with a gentle wave of the hand. "Don't worry," said he, "it's just the Italian character." I trust that is a slander.

AFTER my introduction to the inwardness of Florence I felt I must visit just one art centre, if only to prove that I had been in this fabled capital of the Guelphs, the Ghibellines and the Medici. So, in a dark street, I found my way to the dark house of the master artist, possibly the most prolific producer in the history of human craftsmanship.

It surprised me to find that Michelangelo was satisfied with a cramped and clammy house where hardly any light entered, a house not merely drab but ugly. Yet there he designed man's ultimate testament to beauty.

I HAD seen and marvelled at his finished statues and paintings in Rome, at his titanic creation, the cathedral of St. Peter's. But far more interesting were the first germs of these masterpieces—the rough, free-hand sketches of the great church as its image first flashed upon the creator's mind, the crude pencil drawings, mere scrawls, which became the murals of the Sistine Chapel and, most of all, two 12-inch clay models of a young man which finally emerged in the polished marble of David, the most beautiful of his sculpture.

Here was the homework of genius which the public of his time never saw; the infinite toil of night while others slept, the experiments, the rejected designs, the incredible secret labors of an old man who could paint, sculpt, build churches and write poetry, the private records of the universal genius.

EVEN more than St. Peter's that accumulation of merely preparatory work (and most of it must have been long lost) must send anyone into the streets again amazed by the unplumbed possibilities of his species.

So, with some remnant of truth, I was able to tell the Denver ladies at dinner that I had drunk in Florence and would return to America thoroughly cultured. This seemed to make them happy. I had set my feet on the path which they had followed, footsore, weary and soberly intoxicated across the face of Europe.

As Our Readers See It

TOBACCO ROAD

The author of "Tobacco Road" is certainly to be congratulated on having achieved notoriety. Let us hope that he is raking in the shekels.

Having noticed the controversy on this remarkable book some time ago, I read it to see what the fuss was all about, and cannot say I was particularly struck with the book.

I surmised that it was intended to be a study of a certain type of living in a certain portion of the United States, and I was not, impressed, in fact, cannot remember a single character. I thought the book verging somewhat on the vulgar side.

Certainly, if those interested consider it worth dramatizing—why not? As for cutting out parts which are the whole crux of any play, one can hardly blame the principals for objecting.

What a fuss about nothing! Personally, I wouldn't cross the road to see the play. However, "Chacun a son gout," as the old woman said when she kissed her cow.

Congratulations, Mr. Author, may the shekels continue to roll in. You certainly struck it lucky, being so well advertised.

"AMUSED."

TEACHERS' VOICE

During the recent provincial controversy over the charges made about our educational program by Mr. J. A. Reid of Salmon Arm, many people must have asked themselves why Social Credit politicians from the premier down have been at great pains to uphold Mr. Reid's right to say what he pleases.

Surely no one challenges his right to the freedom of speech; the supporters of the present government are talking as if they were the sole defenders of the Bill of Rights. Are they not rather throwing up a smoke screen to beloud the issue?

Mr. Reid's charges were twofold: one, that "dangerous" material appears in the curriculum of B.C.'s schools, and two, that the teachers are using it.

The first charge was repudiated by Mr. Bennett himself on May 13, and the second has been disavowed. But what disturbed the teachers of Salmon Arm (and teachers all over the province) was that the second charge should ever have been made.

The staff of the Salmon Arm schools, when they denounced Mr. Reid's charge as one "against all teachers," were speaking for many members of their profession besides themselves. The moulding of character is the basic aim of our educational process. No one teacher would tear down what he has dedicated his life to building up.

It is good to note that Mr. Bennett apparently disclaims Mr. Reid's allegations, but it is impossible to understand why Mr. Bennett's colleague, Mr. Martin, sees fit to describe the MLA from Salmon Arm as a "hero."

A VICTORIA TEACHER.

Tee for Two

Chips

By DAVID BROCK

IF NOBODY has yet translated the police thrillers of Maurice LeBlanc, it is high time somebody did. Or high time we all learnt to read French. I have just finished reading my first one, about a noble-minded gentleman-thief. This semi-criminal hero is named Arsene Lupin, and I dare say he is known to practically every reader of thrillers except myself. Was, not is. For he is known to me now all right, I won't be able to sleep a wink tonight for laughing. Every time I hear the stairs creak, I'll creak with a fresh joke to me.

It is hard to say which is the best part of this book, "The Three Crimes of Arsene Lupin." The author has the nerve to introduce two unlikely characters into the plot. One is Sherlock Holmes, who is working for the other unlikely character, the late Kaiser Wilhelm II. Holmes never actually appears in person, and he is called Herlock Sholmes—the surname in two syllables, with a grave accent on the E, to rhyme with Holmes, which also has two syllables within a day's journey south or east of Baker Street).

But he is quite definitely the real Holmes, and he is in the story all right. And a blundering Britisher he is, too. Lupin, his hated rival, makes him look like an idiot. As does the demon villain, too, who happens to be a beautiful lady with a taste for sticking knives into her husband, her brother, and anyone else who is handy.

THE Kaiser comes right onto the stage, several times. He comes all the way to Paris in disguise to consult Lupin. His best meeting with Lupin, however, was on the island of Capri. Wishing to talk privately with the German Emperor without attracting attention, Lupin followed him all the way from Germany to Capri, where he hurriedly disguised himself as an old and feeble hermit collecting autographs. He had piled loose on an enormous boulder, as big as a house, on the cliffs above the Kaiser's path, and by means of some device not clearly described, he was able to start the rock trundling down the steep towards the very spot where the Kaiser was signing his autograph book.

WITH a warning cry, he grabbed the Kaiser, and flung him ten metres (thirty-odd feet) to one side. Where the hermit got to himself before the rock whizzed by, I cannot inform you. But if a feeble old hermit can throw a Kaiser thirty feet... over thirty-two feet, really... without attracting attention, then he can doubtless throw himself a good safe distance also, and in plenty of time.

ON the whole, I think the finest scene, the finest among many, was when an idiot girl (sole custodian of the clue to the treasure) attempted to kill herself by throwing herself into a fireplace. As luck would have it, there was a handsome pair of tongs standing with the other fireside tools on the hearth. So by picking her up with the tongs, Lupin was able to remove her from the fireplace and save her life. (Save it for a few moments, I mean; she was poisoned by her sister a few minutes later.)

THAT touch about the fire tongs brings the whole scene to life. Lovely, lovely, lovely. And I bet you Sherlock Holmes would have had the presence of mind to use the tongs. He would have wasted half an hour trying to get a sharp point on the poker, so he could spit her through some non-vital part and get her out that way. Or he would have used a gaff, maybe, if it had been a fishing lodge. No, Lupin was the only man ever to prevent suicide in the fireplace by means of the tongs. And yet how simple the solution appears, once his own genius had hit upon it!

The System Is Working

New York Times

THE Department of Commerce, the National Bureau of Economic Research Inc., and the National Industrial Conference Board have published figures on the structure of our economy which deserve special mention at home and abroad as a dramatic justification of the American free-enterprise system.

These figures knock into a cocked hat the Communist caricature of the United States, picturing it as being owned by a few "billionaires" while the rest of the population is being ground into dust as "wage slaves."

They could also be studied with profit by European Socialists, capitalists and all exponents of "planned economy." From these figures we learn that 81.7 per cent of the national income, after taxes, now goes to 93 per cent of the population, and the top 1 per cent of the "rich" receives only 8.5 per cent of the national income before taxes, which high-bracket income taxes reduce to 6 per cent.

Furthermore, the 80 per cent of all families earning less than $3,000 a year own nearly half the nation's wealth; over half of all families in the country own their own homes, and the nation's economy is not being run by a few giant corporations but by a total of 4,043,500 individual business concerns.

Finally, as backlog against a slump, the American consumers have a combined wealth of more than $800,000,000,000 at their disposal.

These developments, which show a progressively wider distribution of national wealth and national income, are due to a long-term tendency, inherent in the American economy.

One reason for them is, of course, the growth of national productivity, which has raised the gross national product to $346,000,000,000 and the national income to $290,500,000,000, although part of this rise is also due to higher prices.

But the main reason is the revolutionary discovery of American industry that in order to have an assured market for an ever-expanding production it must not only keep prices down through mass production but must also pay workers enough to enable them to buy what they produce.

In other words, despite remaining shortcomings, the American economy is on the way to achieve in freedom what the Communists profess to be seeking by terror, murder and oppression.

Save the Surface

EVER since Sir Rabindranath Tagore came from India to Victoria in the late '20s to deliver an address that passed over most of his hearers' heads—mine included—I've been captured by the title: "The Philosophy of Leisure."

Not that I've been deep in philosophy or that I don't know what to do with my leisure. Just give me a leisure and I'll show you a world's speed record for falling asleep. "Doormouse" Stott they call me.

Still, though I'm no East Indian poet or Hindu mystic, of late I've been in a brown study during those off hours when I haven't been putting in time on the job I'm paid to do.

It's a right nice brown study, too. A chocolate brown that Elmer tells me is about the best you can make in house paint. I'm immersed in it. Some of the stuff goes on the shingles. A lot of it clings to me.

So if I can't pose as an authority on the Philosophy of Leisure, I can show you a pretty fair practical replica of a brown study in spare time activity.

One of my relatives once told me that painting was about the easiest job going. It required no mental effort at all, just a little physical stamina and a good brush. The beauty of it was, he said, that a guy could paint and use his brain on any one of a dozen other problems at the same time—a sort of activated repose.

So I've been painting over abstracts in my leisure brown study, all the while splattering chocolate coloring on my head, which makes my hair look a bit better at that.

And the thing that sticks just under the hirsute paint job is a slogan I once read in a varnish advertisement, or was it a plug for cosmetics? "Save the surface," it said, "and you save all."

Just about all my conscious life I've been seeing people trying to save the surface. As far as I can see, that's all quite a few of them do save. It seems to be a policy of our present society. Appearances are the things that count. Keep a high polish on the veneer and chances are nobody will notice any flaws in the main woodwork.

Maybe I'm a little cynical, but it seems to me a certain school of public relations gives a little too much emphasis to that point. Make it look good, they say. Whether it is good or not is apparently of secondary importance.

The idea grows too pervasive. Last year Dr. Bernard Iddings Bell indicated the end product in his discussion of American society, which, he said, was well-washed, all dressed up and rather pathetically wondering what it was washed and dressed up for.

Not that all Americans are people for whom the Iddings Bell tolls. A lot of them aren't. Anyone who can afford to be well-washed and all dressed up all the time can usually afford to wear old clothes and wash when he feels like it.

Still, you can't help agreeing in part with Dr. Bell's generality if you listen to the radio commercials. And it tends to shatter your faith in the invulnerability of the varnish slogan, "Save the surface and you save all." I can't help thinking that as I notice some of the ship's not too sound under the shingles I'm painting and some of the studding isn't going to last forever.

of the studding isn't going to last forever. It's a depressing thought, you tend to acquire if you're up a ladder with a paint can. It tints your spirits with sepias as you do up your skin in chocolate brown. But you can escape from it easily enough. A little solvent and an application of public relations will clear the dingy away.

FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

The Threat in the Air

ON Feb. 19 of this year, one of the most significant meetings in recent American history was held at the White House.

The man who called the meeting was the President himself. Those present were the principal Congressional leaders of both parties, plus the senior Republican and Democratic members of the Armed Services Committees of the House and Senate. The purpose of the meeting was to brief the Congressional chiefs on the most important problem posed by the last great policy paper of the Truman National Security Council, NSC-141.

In some sense, NSC-141 was a confession of bankruptcy of the Truman administration's defense policy. On the basis of a reportedly formidable array of supporting facts, it is known to have argued that all our vast defense expenditures were not buying reasonable security for the United States and the free world.

NSC-141 is further known to have paid particular attention to the special problem that has often been raised in this space—the problem of American air defense. The facts, as set forth at the White House meeting in the presence of President Eisenhower, were little short of hair-raising.

In crude summary, it was forecast that the Soviet Union would have the power to launch a totally destructive air-atomic attack on the U.S. within two to three years. It was admitted that existing and presently planned air defenses were wholly inadequate to stop such a Soviet attack. And it was stated that an adequate American air defense could not be achieved without a great and urgent effort, involving massive money outlays not included in the Truman budget.

Recognizing such an omission in their own planning must have been an unpleasant task for the Truman administration leaders who prepared NSC-141. Although members of a new administration were now doing the talking at the White House, none of them suggested that the facts were incorrectly set forth, or that the conclusions drawn were false in any respect.

On the contrary, there was evidence that the President and his staff were then most seriously considering launching the air defense program that NSC-141 had urged as needed.

The meeting itself was such evidence. What other motive could the President have had, in raising and carefully defining this terrible problem, except to prepare for the time when he would have to propose a solution? Then too, costs were mentioned at the meeting. It was indicated that the global cost of the necessary air-defense program might run as high as $20,000,000,000, over a period of years. What could have been the motive of mentioning these outlays, if the President was not inclined to ask the Congress for the money?

Because of this meeting, with the consent of all the other Democratic Congressional leaders, Rep. Rayburn wrote the President to pledge Democratic support for any defense appropriations that might be requested. Somewhat later, at his budget press conference, the President stated that earlier estimates of the Soviet air-atomic threat had not been changed. Such are the facts on one side of the balance sheet.

On the other side is the Eisenhower defense program. It contains no serious provision of any visible kind for solving the air defense problem. The needed extensions of the air warning net, the better communications systems, the improved and strengthened intercepter forces, are just not going to be contracted for. If these essentials are not contracted for now, they will not exist when the time of danger begins. The lead time of disaster, unhappily, is much shorter than the lead time of new airplanes.

Farmers Hoping for Weather Break to Complete Seeding

WINNIPEG (CP)—With overall moisture conditions adequate, farmers across the Prairie provinces now are looking for warm, dry weather so as to complete their seeding.

Recent unseasonal snow, which held up seeding, however, was looked upon as a blessing in providing sub-soil moisture, especially in Manitoba, which is far ahead of the other two provinces in seeding operations. The Searle Grain Company's latest precipitation report Thursday said there now is more than sufficient moisture in the soil in all three provinces to germinate the seed as soon as it can be sown.

"What is badly needed at this moment is a period of warm, dry weather so that seeding of all grains may be completed as quickly as possible."

SCHOOL LOANS

EDMONTON (CP)—The Board of Public Utilities Commission Thursday announced the authorization of another $910,750 in loans for school construction by school divisions and districts in Alberta.

INCORPORATIONS

EDMONTON (CP)—The government reported Thursday that 64 companies were incorporated in Alberta during the last two weeks. Seven companies with head offices outside the province received certificates of registration.

DRIVER EXONERATED

EDMONTON (CP)—Coroner's jury Thursday exonerated William F. Hogg of Edmonton of blame in a traffic accident which resulted in the death of four-year-old Patrick Delorme. The boy died in hospital May 5, two days after he was knocked down by an automobile driven by Hogg.

EDUCATORS MEET

SASKATOON (CP)—A one-year course is adequate to turn out qualified teachers, delegates attending the first Western Canada regional conference of teacher educators decided Thursday.

H. O. English, outlining the British Columbia Normal School program, said a teacher to be successful must be prepared to interpret and adapt any unit selected from studies to the needs of a specific group of pupils.

AWARDED DAMAGES

EDMONTON (CP)—Damages of $2,554 were awarded Thursday in Alberta Supreme Court to Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Ferris of Hayter and their four children.

All six were injured near Provost May 4, 1952, when a car driven by George McIntosh of Provost was in collision with the Ferris car. The plaintiffs had sought damages of $11,000.

Eisler Urged To Come Home

NEW YORK (UP)—The Voice of America urged American Communist Gerhart Eisler today to "come home" and face bail-jumping charges rather than risk execution in Red-controlled East Germany.

"Why not come home, Gerhart," the voice said in a broadcast beamed to East Germany. "You have everything to gain and nothing to lose."

The state department's broadcast took note of the fact that Eisler, who fled the United States while awaiting trial on contempt of Congress charges, is in serious trouble with Red bosses in East Germany. His name has been linked with that of Franz Dähle, ousted Communist leader who appears to be slated for a "treason" trial.

"The Communists are looking for scapegoats," the broadcast said, "and Eisler is a made-to-order one, complete with western breeding and an American bell around his neck."

Eisler was installed as East German propaganda chief after he fled behind the Iron Curtain. He recently was removed from the powerful post.

The Voice of America broadcast reminded Eisler: "Here you are only a bail-jumper, not even a criminal yet; and where you are you have every chance of being a dead man."

Court trial before Mr. Justice Boyd McBride was heard in camera.

Winter was charged in connection with an assault on a 14-year-old girl at or near Edmonton February 10.

BURNS PROVE FATAL

PUNNICHY, Sask. (CP)—Four-year-old Lillian Fazakas died in hospital early Thursday from burns suffered Wednesday night when she wandered into a stubble fire near her home here. The child suffered third-degree burns. Punnichy is 115 miles southeast of Saskatoon.

MURDER HEARING

BRANDON (CP)—Pte. Reginald John Finn, 24, of nearby Shilo, was formally committed for jury trial on a murder charge following a preliminary hearing in police court Thursday.

Finn is charged with the fatal stabbing of L. Cpl. A. W. N. Smith, 29, of Toronto, during a barrack room quarrel at Shilo May 12.

The accused was not represented by counsel and declined to make any statement. Twenty-three witnesses were called during the hearing.

Funeral Services Set Monday for Well-Known Lawyer

A private funeral will be held Monday for James Street Brandon, a member of the Victoria bar, who died Thursday at his home in Brentwood. He was 80.

Born in Ontario, he came to the coast in 1898 and taught school at Happy Valley. He went from there to Trail, where he became principal of the elementary school, and returned to Vancouver Island in 1909, when he began practicing law.

He continued his practice until less than a year ago. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Walter Brynjolfsson, of Victoria, and Mrs. W. Kier, Cayuse Beach, B.C.; two sons, Corp. James Brandon, RCMP, and Const. John Brandon, RCMP; nine grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

The private service will be held at Hayward's with Rev. T. H. McAllister officiating. Cremation will follow.

Joan in Dancing Comeback

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Joan Crawford, dancing in pictures for the first time in 14 years in skin-tight black shorts, decided today she's kept that slender figure from doing her own housework.

The one-time $30-a-week chorus girl, who won fame as a Charleston hooper, blossomed into a dramatic star during the last decade, and many a movie fan has forgotten she was a dancing queen of the '30s. Today, at 45, the actress staged a spectacular dancing comeback in "Torch Song" at MGM. In a Crawford-clinging dancer's leotard and long, black mesh stockings, she looked a sexy 25.

Miss Crawford confessed this is all due to a scrub brush and a cookbook. "Tennis or gym work? Oh, no!" exclaimed Joan. "My exercise is scrubbing floors and doing the laundry."

"Sunday, for example, I got up, fired the cook, cooked breakfast, had my hair dyed, had a manicure and pedicure, cooked lunch, prepared dinner, kissed the children goodbye, packed my clothes and came to the studio. I've been living in my dressing room at the studio because of the work schedule.

"Thanks to my home activities, I haven't had one sore muscle from the dancing and rehearsals six hours a day. I wrenched my shoulder once on a turn, and got my sacroiliac out of whack four times, but I've never been sore."

"Torch Song" is another milestone—her first movie in color after all these years.

"Everyone will expect to see me with dark hair and eyes, but I have red hair and blue eyes," she laughed.

The picture also is the star's first at her alma mater, MGM, in 12 years. She got the part, she explained, because she dropped in at the studio to appear in a short subject for the cerebral palsy fund.

"I don't care whether you're a newcomer or been around this business 20 years, they have to see you around or they forget you," she said firmly.

"When I did the cerebral palsy film, everybody said how wonderful it was you came back again. A month later they sent me the script."

Miss Crawford, whose last musical was "The Shining Hour" in 1939, added from now on "I want nothing but musicals!" This is the easiest picture I've done.

"This is the story of a dancer, completely enamored of her career, self-sufficient," she said. "Yet you see her crying herself to sleep. She turns out to be a lonely woman."

"What career woman isn't?"

"But I don't even have the luxury of a good cry at night," the movie star said wistfully. "I have to look attractive on the set in the morning."

Liberals Up To Same Old Gags—Riley

CCF Organizer Says
Record Reminder

A claim that the Liberals are "trying to fool the public again" with a "bright new political platform," that they will work for the interest of the people of British Columbia if they are elected June 9, was made by R. Riley, CCF provincial organizer, at an election meeting Thursday.

Mr. Riley, speaking on behalf of Frank Mitchell, CCF candidate for Esquimalt, at the Colwood Community Hall, said the Liberals are up to their same "old gags" of pretending to be a people's party.

"To create that impression," said Mr. Riley, "they have appointed many new young candidates who are proving themselves to be capable speakers."

But the Liberal party is handicapped in one way," added Mr. Riley. "All the fluency of their young candidates can't get rid of the Liberal record."

RESENTMENT SEEN
Mr. Riley, who recently toured constituencies on the mainland, said he had noticed in the interior of British Columbia a "growing resentment" against the Social Credit party.

"The people are beginning to realize that the Socreds have no political platform," said Mr. Riley. "They are also beginning to appreciate the CCF program which is designed to protect and safeguard the interests of the people."

Mr. Mitchell said the CCF party had pledged itself to institute a publicly-owned car accident insurance system which would give better coverage at less cost.

"We believe that traffic accidents are a social problem," he said. "Our financial plan would give financial compensation for everyone killed or injured in a traffic accident, no matter who was to blame."

HOUSING NEED STRESSED

CCF Head Advocates Five-Point Program

TORONTO (UPI)—CCF leader M. J. Coldwell charged Thursday night that the Liberal government had made "no major attempt" to meet the "desperate demands for housing" in Canada.

He told a party nominating convention in Davenport, riding that the CCF advocated "an overall comprehensive housing plan" which would include close co-operation between the federal, provincial and municipal governments.

The objectives of the Socialist program, he said, would be:

1. Reduction of interest rates on loans to 2 per cent with the Central Mortgage & Housing Corporation, solely responsible for issuing loans in urban and rural areas.

2. An increase in loans from 80 to 90 per cent of the lending value of the building or housing project.

3. Lengthening of the amortization period from 20 to 30 years.

4. Inauguration of a rental subsidy for municipal or public housing authorities.

5. Grants to the provinces which would be handed to the municipalities for construction of schools under the National Housing Act to train housing administrators.

King, a Texas oil heir, is scheduled to arrive from New York today to try to talk the sultry dancer out of her announced plan to seek a divorce.

But Samia said she won't be on hand to meet her playboy mate at the airport.

Tory Candidate Charges Socreds Create Fear, Unrest Among B.C. Civil Servants

Social Crediters are trying to pull the wool over voters' eyes when they say there is not fear and unrest in the civil service, Robert Patch, Progressive Conservative candidate in Victoria, told an election meeting Thursday night.

Mr. Patch claimed Premier Bennett's government was promoting the unrest with the aim of having key men quit.

"And you can be sure it will be friends of the government that are going to replace them," he said.

Mr. Patch complained, too, about government's dismissal of a man who had given 20 years to government service, after only five days' notice. The candidate referred to the dismissal of John Gawthrop, former director of regional development in the trade and industry department. Mr. Patch said the government had no excuse for cutting out that job.

Mr. Patch said the PC plan would bring about an assessment standard without-imposition of a personal property tax, which he claimed, the Social Credit scheme embraced.

Speaking with Mr. Patch were running mates Arthur Chapman and Monte Drake.

Mr. Chapman dealt at length with PC plans for forest management. Mr. Drake explained the party's attitude toward equalization of assessments. He

DATED AT VICTORIA, B.C., MAY 22, 1953

ALAN B. MACPARLANE, Returning Officer, Victoria City Electoral District.

THE SUPREME COMMANDER OF Allied forces in Europe pleaded with the people of 14 North Atlantic Treaty nations to accept the high costs and heavy burdens of an increased defense effort until the gap between Eastern and Western strength is closed and "we have achieved a reasonable chance of successfully defending ourselves."

"We may be gambling today with all that is precious, with human lives and spiritual principles, as well as with earthly treasures," Ridgway said. "If we slow down and are assailed, and lose, we shall have seen our liberties perish, our institutions destroyed, ourselves enslaved and our God derided."

Ridgway voiced his sober warning in a nation-wide radio broadcast from a dinner of the newly organized American Council on NATO, Inc. He will shortly leave his European post to become United States army chief of staff.

"No amount of post-war explanations can explain, no post-war excuse can excuse the needless loss of lives sacrificed through compromise of principle and lack of sustained resolution, through lack of timely adequate preparation to meet recognized perils," Ridgway said. "We shall have to place our need for security ahead of our desire for business as usual, he said."

Ridgway said that the advances in NATO defenses in the past years had been almost completely matched by increased Russian armament. Russia today "could, with relatively little warning, strike at any point of their choice along the 4,000-mile line stretching from Norway to Turkey. We know that we must also face the threat of the Soviet's atomic capabilities."

"Against that existing Soviet threat our available land, air and sea forces are still very inadequate... we still have major deficiencies in manpower, support units, logistical establishments, stockpiles of ammunition and above all in planes."

Island Digest

CUMBERLAND—Charles Parnham, member of the fire department for 50 years, who recently retired as chief, was honored here at a civic reception headed by Mayor William Henderson.

The gathering was told that, in addition to his fire department service, Mr. Parnham had been organist at the United Church for 40 years and member of the hospital board for 24 years.

DUNCAN—Funeral services were held at St. Andrew's Church, Cowichan Station, on Thursday for Mrs. Sophie Helen Stewart MacLeod, who died on May 15 at King's Daughters' Hospital.

Relative of Sir George MacLeod, surgeon to Queen Victoria, by whom he was knighted, Mrs. MacLeod traveled in India and Burma before settling at Cherry Point 41 years ago. Her husband died in 1941 and their only son, Capt. W. L. Stewart MacLeod, died in the Normandy fighting in 1944.

DUNCAN—Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP, will take the salute at the Coronation Day parade here June 2, scheduled to start at 11 a.m.

At 1 p.m. the Queen's speech following her Coronation will be re-broadcast, and a ceremony will follow at which Air Marshal Sir Philip Livingstone, FRSC, will be the main speaker.

NANAIMO—Percy Hawkins, Social Credit candidate for Cowichan-Newcastle, has refused to appear on a public platform in Ladysmith Sunday with other candidates in the riding.

His campaign manager, William Mossman, announced that Mr. Hawkins will not take part in Sunday political activity.

PORT ALBERT—A verdict of accidental death, with no blame attached, was returned by a coroner's jury investigating the death a week ago of Francois Gaudreau in the Soma Division "B" mill.

He apparently died in the gang saw conveyor belt. There were no witnesses to the accident.

ALBERTA—Voters' list here has dropped 2,800 names since last June, according to Howard Harding, government agent.

There are only 9,274 names this year whereas last year there were close to 12,000.

DUNCAN—More than 500 persons attended a dance here Thursday night in Cowichan High School auditorium in aid of the Community Centre Association. About 80 pupils of Miss Patt Carr-Hilton took part.

NEW YORK (UP)—Police held a 31-year-old Buffalo, N.Y., housewife for psychiatric examination today after she carried a one-year-old boy out of a Brooklyn apartment and took him to a Catholic church "to give him to God."

The woman, identified as Mrs. Lucille Marciniak, told police she was "Lady Rose Fatima of France" and that she took the baby "because he wasn't being taken care of and I wanted to help."

Mrs. Marciniak was booked on a charge of endangering the life of a minor. Her husband was summoned from Buffalo.

Mrs. Amelia Morales, 33, who recently moved to New York from Puerto Rico and speaks only Spanish, said Mrs. Marciniak walked into her apartment Thursday and began to tidy up the room occupied by her two children, Benjamin, 2, and Carlos, 1.

The mother said she thought the woman was a neighbor and that her visit was a custom of welcome. But she became alarmed when Mrs. Marciniak picked up Carlos and walked out the door.

Fearing to leave the other child alone, Mrs. Morales sent a neighbor girl to follow the abductor. The girl followed Mrs. Marciniak to St. Mark's Catholic Church, where she entered and knelt to pray, still clutching the baby. The girl called a priest, who summoned police.

Police said Mrs. Marciniak came to New York Monday to take a course in salesmanship. Her husband is a Ford Motor Co. employee in Buffalo and they have a six-year-old daughter.

Russian Atomic Bomb Production Set at 100

BONN, Germany (UP)—A West German government bulletin, quoting a "military expert," said today Soviet Russia has produced "at the most" 100 atom bombs.

The United States is making an estimated 500 atom and hydrogen bombs yearly.

The bulletin added that America is outdistancing Russia in the development of atomic guns and the use of atomic energy to drive motors.

But the official government publication said Russia, China and the Soviet satellites have a peacetime armed force strength of 6,438,000 men, including 175 divisions, compared to 3,175,000 men and 90 land divisions in the forces of the 14 North Atlantic Treaty nations.

The bulletin estimated the Soviet Union and satellites could muster 300 active divisions within two months after mobilization, whereas the West could put only 180 active divisions in the field.

However, the bulletin added that the Allies would gain 60 divisions from Sweden, Switzerland, Spain and Yugoslavia in the event of a third world war.

The bulletin noted, however, that the manpower of a Western division is one-third greater than an Eastern division and has greater mobility and firepower.

Western oil production was estimated at 308,400,000 tons, while the Communist states' output was fixed at 48,300,000 tons.

False Teeth Need A Special Cleanser

Don't Brush Your Plates! Soak Them in Polident As Dentists Suggest

Polident is the recommended way to clean dentures, banish Denture Breath. Just follow these easy rules:

1. Never use a brush on them! Your dental plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.

2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath."

3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only... Polident! Polident cleanser is recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates. Polident gets where a brush can't reach.

Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser, Polident, at your drug counter.

Tommy Giants Complicate Act Hijacks As N.L. Race Tightens

Butlers Fielding Gems Save Victory by Jackson

Two great catches by centrefielder Tommy Derr preserved a four-hitter thrown by Barry Jackson as the Chinese Students beat out Butler Bros. Aces 4-2 in a Senior A softball game at Central Park Thursday night.

By winning the Students moved into a four-point lead over Aces and Navy.

Students gained a 2-0 lead when Bung Derr tripled in the second inning and scored on a single by Quinton Marr. Marr, who had a perfect night at the plate, scored the number two run with a long home run to left field, and Jackson was moving along on a one-hit shutout when the Aces made their move in the top of the sixth.

Frank Kilshaw opened with a pop fly behind third base for the first out, but Hal Yardley followed with a single through the box.

Ronnie Benn followed with a walk, bringing clean-up hitter Herb Bate to the plate.

GREAT CATCH

Bate smashed a long fly to deep centre, and Tommy Derr, who got a good jump on the ball, pulled it down with a one-hand, over-the-shoulder catch.

Don Hendry hit a grounder to short that Don Robinson juggled, Yardley scoring on the error with Benn moving to third.

Aces pulled a double steal, and Benn scored easily when catcher Gordie Harvey made a bad throw on the play.

John Furmston came in to pinch-hit for Jim Burdge and he brought the crowd to its feet with a long line drive out to centre but Derr played him just right and made the catch for the third out.

Students didn't waste much time in getting the lead back when they scored the final two runs of the game in their half of the sixth.

IN HOT WATER

Bud Collier, who was making his first start of the season after being out of ball last year, was tiring and got himself in a jam after giving up a single to Tommy Derr and walking Bung Derr with one away.

George Brown sacrificed both runners along, and the leading runner scored on a wild pitch. Bung Derr crossed home plate with the Students' fourth run of the game on a single by Quinton Marr.

Aces threatened again in the seventh after Willie Benn opened with a double down the third base line and moved along to third on an infield out.

Pinch-hitter Sluggert, hitting for Collier, popped out to third, and Frank Kilshaw was robbed of an extra base blow when Tommy Derr made a circus catch of his long fly to right centre.

Jackson picked up his third straight win of the season to preserve his perfect record. Collier was charged with the loss.

Senior A action returns to Central Park tonight when the Navy meet Capital City Gasmen. Game time 6.30.

TOMMY HOLDS TEMPER; ALSO COLONIAL LEAD

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP)—Terrible-tempered Tommy Bolt, who thinks there's no point in "flipping your lid" on a real tough golf course, was leading the $25,000 Colonial National Invitation tournament by four strokes today because he practised what he preached.

The Maplewood, N.J., professional had his bad moments on the opening round Thursday—such as blowing two 18-inch putts—but he choked off his normal tendency to break a few clubs and wound up with a flashy three-under-par 34-33-67.

His closest competitors—Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex.; Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., and Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill.—were way back at one-over-par 71's.

Two More Marks Fall In High School Meet

Greater Victoria high school athletes continued their assault on records Thursday as the inter-high school track and field competition completed its third day of field events.

Two new marks were set at the Victoria High School Gyro track to bring the total to six records that have been smashed since the meet opened Tuesday. Track events were scheduled to be run off today.

John Skillings of Victoria High beat his old 120-yard boys' open hurdles mark of 16.9 when he timed in at 16.6.

Another Fernwood star, Nita Vood, tossed the discus a record distance of 89 feet 8 1/2 inches, to shatter the former girls' open discus standard of 89 feet 1 1/2 inches set by Kay Burnett of Oak Bay in 1952.

June Bell and Claudia Gelling, Oak Bay, crossed the finish line in a tie for first place in the girls' open hurdles. Their time equalled the record of 3.4 seconds set by Gerry Koski of Victoria High last year.

Victoria High is now in first place in the Roy Jones Trophy aggregate competition with 77 1/2 points. Oak Bay is second with 43; Esquimalt, third, 37; Mount View, fourth, 30; and Mount Douglas is far behind with four points.

In the Sports Council Trophy handicap competition Victoria High is leading by a slim 3 1/2 points. They have 77 1/2; Esquimalt, 74; Oak Bay, 57 1/2; Mount Douglas, 30; and Victoria High, 4.

Aussies Score Net Comeback

VANCOUVER (CP)—The underdogs had their day here Thursday night as Frank Sedgman whipped reigning world professional tennis champion Jack Kramer and Ken McGregor beat little Pancho Segura.

In the one-set doubles match, Kramer and Segura teamed up to beat the Australians 6-4.

Sedgman beat Kramer 4-6, 6-1, 6-4. Kramer won the first set mainly on the strength of his pinpoint-accurate volleying.

In the second, Sedgman cut loose with his booming service and won handily.

The Australian came through in the final game with his most magnificent service to win 40-15 and close out the match.

In the opening match, McGregor won a popular match in downing the little South American 6-4, 2-6, 6-3.

Sedgman's victory cut Kramer's lead in the 90-game tour to 51-38. Segura holds a 64-25 lead in games over McGregor.

New York Giants are ready to start a petition demanding more room in the first division in the National League.

They think they belong there, just as the experts said before the season started. But it's a typical NL race with almost everybody trying to get in front. It's so tight even a five-game winning streak and nine successes in their last 12 starts aren't enough to get the Giants higher than fifth.

PHILS LEAD

Philadelphia Phillies are in front at the moment, but the margin is so small that on any cold day they ought to be able to feel the hot breath from the hungry pack all the way down to the Giants.

The Phils, thumped 7-2 by Pittsburgh Thursday night, lead Milwaukee by half a game. St. Louis is a half game back of Milwaukee with Brooklyn's off-and-on Dodgers another half step behind the Cards.

That brings it down to fifth place and the Giants, who knocked off Brooklyn 7-2, to creep within three games of the top.

In the American League, where New York Yankees are threatening to run away, the margin is more than that from first to second.

The Yankees stretched their lead to 3 1/2 games over the idle Chicago White Sox by edging Washington Senators 6-5 on a three-run seventh-inning rally.

Philadelphia Athletics overpowered Boston 9-0 in the only other American League game. The Cardinals made up deficits of three and six runs to defeat Cincinnati 11-9 to round out the National League action.

CORWIN SAVER

The season's largest National League crowd, 46,778, Polo Grounds customers saw Brooklyn dispose of Giant ace Sal Maglie with one out in the first inning when Duke Snider followed by Duke Reese's single with a home run, and Jackie Robinson added a double. But Al Corwin, making his third relief appearance in four games, stopped the Dodgers until the fifth, and Dave Koslo held the lead to the end. The victory went to Corwin, just as it did the last two times he relieved.

The roof fell in on Karl Drews in Pittsburgh in the sixth inning. The Philadelphia right-hander had a 2-0 lead when the Pirates suddenly found the range for seven singles and were aided by two walks and a pair of errors.

The Yankees' victory, too, was a come-from-behind effort against the battling Senators. Down 5-3 after four innings, mainly because of the generosity of Whitney Ford and Ray Scarborough, who gave up nine walks, the Yankees rallied for three runs in the seventh. Jim McDonald and Tom Gorman pitched hitless ball through the last 5 1/2 innings for New York.

The Athletics' triumph over Boston may have been a costly one since they lost the services of lefty Bobby Shantz for an indefinite period. Shantz, pitching shutout ball, strained a muscle in his arm with two out in the fourth and had to retire.

Reds' Bullets Miss Frenchman

Communist Ack-Ack Fire Riddles Plane of Indo-China Commander

HANOI, Indo-China (UP)—A military plane carrying the new French supreme commander in Indo-China, Gen. Henri Havarre, was riddled by Communist anti-aircraft fire today, but made a safe emergency landing.

A French command spokesman said none of the passengers was injured.

The plane, an American-built C-47 transport, landed on a narrow strip at the French Thai bastion of Nason after flying 40 miles over enemy-held jungle with one engine smashed by the "violent" anti-aircraft fire.

A French command spokesman said it was a "miracle" nobody was wounded by the hail of bullets and shells.

The plane ran into the strong Viet Minh enemy fire while flying over Moc Chau, 80 miles west of Hanoi. Nason is 40 miles farther west.

The spokesman said the plane took off at daylight from the Hanoi military airfield on a secret flight over the dense jungles encircling the Red River delta area, where strong Red forces are moving in for an attack on Hanoi's defenses.

"The anti-aircraft fire was extremely violent," the spokesman said. "It was well aimed. The port engine was hit and the plane made the trip to Nason by using only the second engine."

TIP-OFF

It was rumored here that the Communists may have been tipped off on the flight by Red agents. A similar accident involved a plane carrying Gen. Gonzales de Linares, French Tonkin front commander, last fall.

Navarre was accompanied on the flight by senior staff officers. He arrived in Indochina only four days ago to replace retiring supreme commander Gen. Raoul Salan.

AIR RAID DRILL CATCHES U.S. ENVOY NAPPING

TAIPEH (UP)—The Chinese Nationalists "sprang" an air raid drill on the people of Formosa today that took U.S. Ambassador Karl L. Rankin as much by surprise as any of the island's 8,000,000-odd inhabitants.

Warning sirens wailed at 1:25 p.m. and Chinese warplanes swarmed into the air to "intercept" the pretended attackers. Air defense officers told newsmen that "three to six unidentified planes" were approaching, but did not add that they were part of the act.

The alert began just five minutes before Rankin was scheduled to take off on a flight to the United States, where he is to testify before various Congressional committees on the China situation. His departure was delayed 45 minutes.

An official announcement said the alert was intended to test the efficiency of the island's air defense against Communist planes that could get here in seven minutes.

Allied Bombers Blast Big Red Reservoir Dam

UN Planes Continue Effort to Wash Out Important Roads and Bridges

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Seven Superforts bombed a 900-foot-long stone and earthen reservoir dam north of Pyongyang today in the Allies' concerted effort to wash out key roads and bridges.

The B-29 assault came as Chinese Communist radio screamed "atrocities" over the destruction of two other dams in the same area earlier this week.

Peiping radio called the bombing of "irrigation reservoirs" a "crime" and "obviously provocative acts designed to stall the armistice talks."

The target of the latest Superfort attack holds back waters of the Hapchang River. To the south of the dam lay key rail and road bridges along the Sun-chon-Pyongyang supply route.

Results of the bombing were not known immediately.

BIG FLOODS

Red radio broadcasters admitted wide areas had been flooded following the first two attacks. Earlier the Communists claimed 800 villagers had been drowned in flood waters.

Fire other Superforts hit a 60-acre supply area near Tokchon and light bombers raided a railway switching yard at Singosan, near the east coast, destroying 28 Communist supply trucks.

F-94 Starfires flying cover for the light bombers engaged two Red jets and apparently damaged one.

Capt. Roger I. Lengel, of Norristown, Pa., said he fired two bursts at one of the planes and saw a "large flash." Lengel reported seeing the plane head back across the Yalu River.

Rain limited ground action to patrol engagement, with Americans killing 15 Reds and wound-

Angry English Mothers Confront Duplessis

QUEBEC CITY (BUP)—Angry mothers of 55 English-speaking girls met this morning with Premier Duplessis today to protest notice given by Bellevue convent that English classes will be discontinued next fall.

The parents said their position was desperate since they either would have to send the girls to non-Catholic institutions or incur severe expenses in sending them to out-of-town schools.

One mother described the move as "an attack on the rights of the English minority." A letter to the parents signed by Mother Superior Marie Immaculee said that a lack of English teachers and an inability to do full justice to small groups had motivated the decision to discontinue the classes.

It said the action was taken "regretfully" and "with bitter disappointment."

GI Joes in Korea Exposed to Shakespeare

By ARTHUR EDSON
WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States defense department has completed a noble experiment. It has tried to find out if Shakespeare, played by a company without stars, will go over with front line troops.

The company, Players, Inc., did it the hard way. It gave the boys in Korea one of Shakespeare's less popular plays, "Love's Labor's Lost."

The company has just flown here from Hawaii, and two members of the cast—Patricia Barnett and Henry Sutton, who also was company manager—were ready Thursday with this report:

Yes and no. It's pretty well agreed that a soldier who has read only comic books isn't curling up with "Hamlet" now that he has seen "Love's Labor's Lost." Still, Sutton said, "we weren't hooted off the stage either."

The company had its worst time at Bulldozer Bowl, which is only two miles from the front as the crowd, or bullet, flies.

"They thought we were a song and dance outfit," Miss Barnett said, "so they had a tiny stage set up."

"Our scenery wouldn't begin to fit," Sutton said. "Much of it we couldn't use at all."

"The men brought their rifles," Miss B. said. "It's disconcerting to be giving Shakespeare and hear some soldier clicking the bolt on his rifle."

"Right in the middle of it," Sutton said, "men began leaving by the truck load. We didn't find out until later than an alert had been sounded."

"You'd be surprised, though, how many came back and told us how they liked the show and how they never guessed Shakespeare could be so entertaining."

Because "Love's Labor's Lost" isn't a well-known play, it created some problems in its billing. One fellow solved the problem this way: In big letters he wrote, "Cast includes four women." In smaller letters, "and 10 men."

Once, in Korea the company was advertised this way: "Love, Labor and Lust."

Shakespeare, no fuddyduddy, would have liked that. It meant a full house.

Crowds Listen in Street as Premier Speaks

One of the biggest crowds ever to attend a Victoria political meeting turned out Thursday night to hear Premier Bennett. More than 1,500 jammed the Royal Theatre, 700 were turned away and 300 stayed to listen to the premier's speech over an outdoor public address system. Portion of crowd outside the theatre (note woman on stretcher in foreground) is pictured above.

Victoria's three Liberal MLAs Mrs. Rolston who is Mrs. Van-couver. The Rolston Formula on school financing, Premier W. A. C. Bennett charged at a Social Credit-sponsored meeting at the Royal Theatre Thursday night.

"The citizens of the capital city would have been saved $156,000 if the three Liberal members had not put policies before the people of Victoria," the premier said.

The premier, addressing more than 1,500 Victorians, claimed the Rolston Formula is the best system yet devised for sharing education costs.

The opposition, he said, was "throwing political dust" in the eyes of the people by defeating the minority Social government on the formula. Social Credit, he continued, is proud of the formula.

Premier Bennett said there was an "unholy alliance" between the CCF and Liberals, aimed at unseating the government. He said federal Liberal cabinet ministers came out from Ottawa and instructed the six-man Liberal group to defeat the Socialists.

He said the Liberals have no hope of winning the June 9 provincial election, but are in the field only to set up the organization for the coming federal vote.

SEES LAING DEFEAT

He predicted Liberal leader Arthur Laing will be running again in the federal election because he'll be beaten provincially by Education Minister Tilly Rolston.

U.S. Assailed By Singapore Newspaper

SINGAPORE, (UP)—The Straits Times charged today the United States is trying to halt Britain's trade with the Communists in China so that Japan can take over.

"The U.S. attitude . . . is that it would be better if Britain stops trading with China and left it to the Japanese, whose trade operations are not questioned in Washington," the newspaper said.

The Times also assailed as "contemptible" Sen. Joseph McCarthy's recent statement that Britain's "aid to China more than offsets any military contribution the British have made in the Korean War," and charged that the Senator is giving aid and comfort to the Communists.

Laing Promises Early Study of Redistribution

Liberal Chief Wants Royal Commission

(Special to the Times)

PRINCE GEORGE—The B.C. Legislature will be called "just as soon as possible," in the early fall if the Liberal Party forms a government, and redistribution will be one of the first items of business, Liberal chief Arthur Laing said here Thursday night.

Laing proposed that a royal commission, rather than the customary committee of the House, would be the most suitable body to examine redistribution of seats in the B.C. House. "The chief electoral officer should certainly be one member of such a commission," he suggested.

"Population of B.C. had risen greatly since the last redistribution in 1937, he pointed out, 42 per cent in the past decade, and there were many anomalies in present representation."

ALL RIDINGS AFFECTED

He thought virtually all constituencies would be affected to some extent, and pointed to Burnaby, with an 80 per cent increase in population in 10 years, and Delta with a 56 per cent rise, as particular examples, each having one member.

The new total of members would "probably be not more than 52," Laing suggested.

He was speaking after a 260-mile trip from Dawson Creek along the John Hart Highway.

Faithful Service Earns Hubert Lethaby Reward

A handsome engraved silver serving tray today graces the sideboard in Hubert Lethaby's home at 79 Wellington Street.

Gift of Victoria Real Estate Board. It symbolizes appreciation of 29 devoted years as the organization's secretary-treasurer. Mr. Lethaby retired from the post at the end of last year. He H. Lethaby has been succeeded by James R. Mahood.

Another veteran of Victoria's real estate business, Alfred Carmichael, officiated at the presentation during Wednesday night's Real Estate Board annual dinner in Empress Hotel. Real Estate Board president in 1924—the year Mr. Lethaby was appointed secretary-treasurer—Mr. Carmichael has been a realtor here since 1908. Mr. Lethaby, he said, is a man of many attributes in addition to having been "the perfect secretary-treasurer" under 16 presidents. He is a philatelist of note and his fine collection of stamps will be exhibited at Vancouver next week.

LIBERAL SPEAKER LASHES OUT AT NEW 10% TAX ON LOGGING

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—The biggest evil of the 10 per cent tax on logging is that the woods operators who have sawmill interests are going to depreciate the price of logs so that they show little or no profit and thus put the small logger out of business, George Whittaker, North Cowichan councillor, claimed at an election meeting here.

Mr. Whittaker spoke on behalf of Geoffrey Edgelow, Esquimalt Liberal candidate.

He lashed out at both the CCF and Social Credit Party, claiming the latter had no political philosophy.

He said CCF is a good party for anyone who is unable to stand up under free enterprise.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

A good-sized advertisement in the newspapers uses large type to ask:

WHAT IS ALTERNATIVE VOTING AND HOW DOES IT WORK?

The advertisement is signed: "F. Hurley, Chief Electoral Officer, Government of the Province of British Columbia."

Well, now, this is a good question, but I confess it surprises me that the chief electoral officer would need to ask it.

You would think, if anyone knew what is alternative voting, and how does it work, Mr. Hurley would.

And if he has to ask what is alternative voting, couldn't he do it a little more quietly? There must be someone around the buildings who could help him out.

I beg Mr. Hurley's pardon. It turns out he isn't REALLY asking, he is just looking for a chance to answer the question.

He explains: "Alternative voting, which will be used in the coming Provincial Election, permits the individual voter to continue to participate in the selection of candidates of his or her choice, until one candidate on the ballot is elected by an absolute majority vote, even should their favorite candidate be eliminated in prior counting."

In case you find that explanation a little unwieldy, you might prefer the Between Times definition of alternative voting:

All citizens have the alternative of voting or not voting.

Mr. Hurley further states "to vote this way is simplicity itself."

This is all very well for Mr. Hurley, but voters in Victoria city need a little more explanation, which I will be glad to provide.

In the first place, you have three ballots—A, B, and C. On each ballot are printed the names of various candidates.

All you need to do is mark Ballot A and B and C with 1, 2, 3, 4, etc.

If you do this correctly, the leading candidate will be the candidate who collects the most one's on the A ballot, thus becoming A-one, and accepted as a risk by Lloyd's of London.

He can then go to the Coronation.

I guess that clears everything up, except the word "plump."

"Plump" is a naughty word, according to the theories of alternative voting.

It is even worse than stylish stout.

Do not plump.

Josephine Lowman will put you on a diet.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

The Oak Bay Art Club will hold an exhibition of work done by members during the year at the Oak Bay Municipal Hall, Saturday, at 8 p.m.

John Kyle will open the show. The public is invited and will be able to vote on its favorite piece in the exhibition.

Boys of 16 now are eligible to join the Reserve Navy. The 16-year-olds will be expected to put in one night a week with other reservists but will not take two weeks' summer training at sea or on shore until after they pass their 17th birthday.

A concert by the Rotary Boys' Choir, assisted by the Rotary Girls' Choir, sponsored by the Queen Alexandra Solarium Junior League, will be held at the Oak Bay High School June 6, at 8 p.m.

Proceeds are in aid of the Solarium.

The ships will rendezvous off Musgrave Landing at 4 p.m. to start the ceremony.

Opening day dinner and dance will follow at Genoa Bay Lodge.

Photographs of four Victorians which were exhibited at the recent Pacific Northwest Photographers' Convention in Spokane, Washington, won awards of merit.

Photographers who won honors were Bernard Atkins, Richard Colby and Sidney Fotis, all of the B.C. Travel Bureau, and Leonard Holmes, portrait photographer.

The halfway mark has been passed by the Victoria Optimist peanut sales campaign. Objective of the drive is $1,000 needed to continue boys' work projects.

Canvassers will sell peanuts in the Oak Bay district tonight, Monday, the Fernwood district will be covered while the ladies' auxiliary will canvass Belmont Park.

New chairman of the honorary advisory board at the Greater Victoria Arts Centre is E. W. Arnott. Vice-president is Major H. C. Holmes who succeeds G. A. A. Hebdon. Other board members are: Mrs. J. D. Hunter, Dr. W. H. Hickman, Charles Mann, John Wade, Stuart Keate and Seth Halton.

Four motorists were fined $25 each in city police court today for violation of motor vehicle regulations.

Fined for failing to have valid driver's licenses were Gnr. Hugh Delorme, 119 Battery, RCA, Work Point Barracks; George Scully, 2747 Asquith, and Herbert Airth, HMCS Naden.

Robert I. Pettigrew, West Saanich Road, was fined $25 for driving a car that was not covered by insurance.

Mayor Harrison stands firmly behind the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities who want all governments to go on the tax roll.

"If for any technical reason the government cannot go on the tax roll then we expect a grant equal to the tax," Mayor Harrison said.

"If the premier's announcement means the full amount I am certainly all in favor of it."

At its last convention in Calgary, the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, agreed on a stand regarding government payment of taxation.

Mr. Bennett at a Sacred meeting in the Royal Theatre Thursday night promised "a grant," but set no figure.

Only Full Capital City Grant Acceptable to Mayor

Premier W. A. C. Bennett's promise of a grant in lieu of taxes on provincial government property in Victoria meets with Mayor Claude Harrison's approval only if it amounts to $230,781.

That sum is approximately the amount the government would have to pay into the city treasury if it paid its taxes as any other property owner.

"Anything less than the full amount would not be satisfactory," said the mayor.

Rescue, Reunion for Lost Toddler

FIRST POLIO CASE REPORTED

First polio case in the Greater Victoria area this season is a young woman from Cadboro Bay who is now in isolation at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Out of isolation is a 10-year-old girl from Duncan. There is a little "residual paralysis" in her case, city health officials state.

Condition of the Cadboro Bay woman is improving, according to Saanich health officials. She is reported "non-paralytic."

Members of the 6th Victoria East Troop of Brownies and Mrs. G. Robinson entertained Mountain View Home residents with songs and dances Thursday afternoon. They also distributed cigars, tobacco, cigarettes and candy.

The regular meeting of the Victoria Short Wave Club will be held Friday, at 8 p.m. at 2500 Foul Bay Road.

The practice of night baking was opposed by the Dominion District Council of the Bakery and Confectionery International Union (AFL-TLC) in session here Thursday.

The group, which is meeting here all this week, decided that in view of the high degree of mechanization in modern bakeries, night baking should be banned.

Banks, offices, stores and government offices, including city and municipal halls, will be closed on Coronation Day, June 2, but catering establishments, transportation lines, beer parlors and newspapers will operate as usual.

LAND OF HOPE AND GLORY

Hundreds of Children Sing Empire's Praises

It's still a land of hope and glory to the kids.

Over 1,500 of them formed up on the lawns and steps of the Legislative Buildings this morning for a spectacular, enthusiastic display of affection for their country and their Empire.

It was Empire Day for Greater Victoria School children.

They marched and they sang and they cheered... and cheers are hard to come by in Victoria.

Let a smart military band march by with a splash of flags and the tramp of booted feet and adult Victoria looks on with its hands in its pockets.

But not the youngsters.

Aside from the 800 pupils from district schools who mounted the parliament block steps, the Cubs and Scouts were first to arrive—400 of them.

And there were 150 Guides and Rangers and eight girl Sea Cadets.

With screaming approval they welcomed the flourishing drummers and white-bellied buglers of the Sea Cadet band. The straight-backed files of 150 Sea and Air Cadets received another great ovation as they marched into position.

Then the bands took over. The kilted School Pipe Band of Victoria and the Sea Cadet Bugle Band rested while the Central Junior High and Victoria High School Band demonstrated the musical skill that recently won them the B.C. festival title.

Suddenly, at the lift of a hand the youngsters stilled, and while amazed parents wondered at their discipline the youngsters were addressed by assistant commissioner of the RCMP, C. E. Rivett-Carnac.

Introduced by regent of the Victoria chapter of the IOOE, Mrs. T. Lumsden, Commissioner Carnac reminded the youngsters of the blessing of being born in Canada, urged them to work together to strengthen the ties of the British Commonwealth.

The ceremony concluded with a procession of civic, government and municipal officials, led by IOOE standard bearers to the base of Queen Victoria's monument for the laying of wreaths.

Legal Snag Delays Nursing Home Plan

By-Law Held Illegal by Lawyers Protesting City Grant to Project

Building of the long-awaited 104-bed addition to Victoria Nursing Home on Gorge Road, due to get under way in June, may be delayed indefinitely, it was learned today.

The legal firm of Gregory, Grant and Cox, acting for undisclosed clients, have protested to the Department of Municipal Affairs that the city's proposed Victoria Nursing Home Society by-law is illegal.

The by-law which would authorize a grant of $150,000 from lands sale funds to the Society, as the city's share of the new addition, has already had first and second readings. Provincial and federal governments have pledged their one-third share each.

In the meantime Deputy Municipal Affairs Minister B. C. Bracewell indicated the department still felt that such a grant to an institution should be authorized by a by-law which has had the assent of the electorate.

This would cause further delay. City Solicitor Arthur Patton ago for quick action on the long-planned project. They stated the need for nursing home beds was "desperate."

They hoped to start work by June and have completion sometime in the fall.

Gregory, Grant and Cox in their protest to the municipal affairs department, said the proposed by-law contravenes a section of the Municipalities Act.

The land to be improved by the proposed addition is owned by the Victoria Nursing Home Society, not the corporation of Victoria, the legal firm stated.

"The matter has to be looked into further," said Mayor Harrison today, who saw "no hopes for an early start."

"I don't see how it can progress under present conditions."

At the same time Mr. Bracewell pointed out with regard to the contention of Gregory, Grant and Cox that neither assent of the electorate or approval by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-council "could make valid a by-law which is ultra vires" of a section of the Municipal Act.

"Settlement of such an issue would be a matter for the courts," he said.

Tenders for the proposed addition have already been called by architects Birley, Wade and Stockhill, with the deadline set for the end of this month.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Here We Go! Luscious Fruits, Week-End Vegetables

By PENNY SAVER

Hi there, Saturday shoppers! If you're planning on stocking the larder with fresh fruits and vegetables, here I am to give you some up-to-date prices . . . that is, unless they change them again before you get downtown in the morning!

Luscious watermelons haunted me all week, 'till finally I broke down and bought half of one today . . . must be some southern blood in me! Most stores are selling them at two pounds for 25 cents.

... Couldn't resist the rhubarb, either. Baked in a pie, with just enough sugar to make it sweet, yet a trifle tart at the same time (get what I mean?) I could devour it "ad infinitum." (That ought to prove I took Latin in High School.) There I go boasting about my brains again, and I nearly forgot to give you the price! Local strawberry rhubarb is 20 cents per pound. Don't ask me where the "strawberry" adj. comes from, 'cause I haven't a clue!

Now the vegetables! Local asparagus is 20 cents a pound and fresh peas are 25 cents a pound. New potatoes are four pounds for 25 cents. Hot house tomatoes are 40 cents a pound, and the smaller, dessert tomatoes are 30 cents a pound.

White shoes! Sandals, loafers, pumps . . . makes no difference. As long as they're white, they're in style!

Airy Grecian sandals look good with a tan (but who can get one in this weather?) They cost $3.95. No! no! Not the tan . . . the shoes, I mean.

Combination suede and mesh shoes are smart for dress-up occasions. (In white, of course.) There are some cute flaties for $5.95, but I like the Cuban heel pumps better. Nine dollars and ninety-eight pennies is the price.

Certainly summery (but not white) are raffia sandals with matching drawstring bag. The shoes cost $5.95 and the bag is $4.95, in a neutral shade.

Legion Auxiliaries Meet at Sidney Hall

Saanich Peninsula Ladies' Auxiliary to Canadian Legion was hostess recently, when eight South Vancouver Island Ladies' Auxiliaries were present at District Council meeting in Sidney Legion Hall. Mrs. A. Ketchell, Victoria, and Mrs. S. Macdonald, Victoria, and Mrs. N. Martin, Nanaimo, provincial vice-presidents, were present. It was decided next Legion Hospital Day will be held in Victoria in July. Arrangements were made for a tea in Hildson's Bay Douglas Room in September. Mrs. S. Cooper convening.

Going to Coronation

MONTREAL—A pretty young Eskimo girl, the only Girl Guide representing the Yukon Territories at the Coronation, was greeted on her arrival here by Henry W. Craig, assistant to the vice-president of traffic, Canadian National Railways.

The girl, Lena Tizya, was impressed by the CNR's Central Station. "It's so big," she said, after being taken on a tour of the building.

A native of Old Crow, 70 miles north of the Arctic Circle and a student at Whitehorse high school, Miss Tizya joined the Girl Guides in Dawson City in 1945.

Dawson is very proud of their representative to the Coronation. A citizen's committee made arrangements to help her with personal expenses during the trip.

Miss Tizya proudly displayed a going-away present from her mother—a colorful native purse with decorative bead work.

Maytime Dance Revue

"Adventure of the Ugly Duckling" is theme of first half of the annual Velda Wille Dance Studio annual revue at Royal Theatre, Monday evening. The clumsy antics of the duckling, Rosemary Tierney, will delight everyone as she clowns through four scenes of delightful dance numbers, including those of the Beautiful Ducklings, Tinker Bells, Robins, Bluebirds, Squirrels and Gnomes who prepare the forest for the Mopsy-Cotton-tail wedding. Finally the duckling meets the stately swans and is turned into a beautiful swan. Following intermission there will be a fascinating festival number and the climax, Chopin's Valse Brillante by senior ballet group featuring Marilyn Ferguson and Myrna Smith. Orchestra will be directed by Reg Wood, with Mrs. W. C. Graves, pianist. Esquimalt Chapter, IOOE, is sponsoring the revue and proceeds will be used to refurbish and redecorate the chapter's unit at Sunshine Camp and to build a room for a nurse, as the unit is to be used for convalescent purposes. Revue tickets are this week being changed at Fletcher's Music store.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

When you're taking your cooking easy during the warm summer months quick mixes will be one of your greatest aids. Chopped walnuts and plump seedless raisins stirred into the batter of cookie mix cookies will give them extra good flavor and also help keep them fresh.

These cookies are wonderful to have on hand at snacktime to serve with tall glasses of cool lemonade.

Chilled fruit makes a refreshing summertime dessert. One of our favorite quickies is chilled canned fruit cocktail served in sherbet glasses topped with a spoonful of frozen orange juice concentrate. Give it a perky look with a fresh mint sprig garnish.

Summertime is milkshake time, and we're sure this easy way of making them will be popular not only with mother but also with the children. You combine this one with an electric blender. Chill two cups milk to ice crystal stage. Puree four large canned peach halves in the blender. Add the frozen milk and ¼ cup sugar and mix in blender until thick and fluffy. Serve at once to four grateful children.

TODAY'S RECIPE

QUICK CHOCOLATE DROPS

One-half cup chocolate syrup, one teaspoon vanilla, few drops peppermint flavoring, one cup milk powder (whole or skim), six tablespoons powdered sugar, chopped walnuts.

Mix all ingredients in order except walnuts. Chill. With buttered hands shape into balls, then flatten into patties. Roll in chopped walnuts. Chill until ready to serve.

(Makes two dozen pieces.)

Celebrates a Birthday

Mrs. A. S. Bunn, 649 Moss Street, is today receiving congratulations from many friends on her 93rd birthday. Mrs. Bunn has long been a faithful member and worker of First United Church, coming to Victoria from Regina 40 years ago with her late husband and family. Mrs. Bunn is still alert and interested in the work of her church.

Going to Montreal Conference

Mrs. Ernest Evans, vice-president, Canadian Home and Schools and Parent-Teacher Federation, is leaving on Monday for Montreal to attend the annual meeting of the federation there June 1 to 6. En route Mrs. Evans will spend two days at Banff, where she will attend a regional conference of the Canadian Adult Education Association. Following the Montreal conference Mrs. Evans will return to Heath Lodge at Revelstoke for a few days' vacation.

Visitors in England

Royalty Story in Pictures Started Years Ago

By ELIZABETH FORBES

The passing fancy of a small girl back in Montreal in 1939 has grown with the years into an exciting hobby for her grown-up prototype, dark-eyed Miss Fidelis Ainey.

A hobby that has turned her into an unofficial historian of the life of Queen Elizabeth II, the royal family and their ancestors.

It all started during the visit of the late King George VI and his Queen Elizabeth, to Canada in 1939.

"Among pictures that appeared in Montreal papers at that time," Fidelis explains, "the one I liked best was a picture of little Princess Elizabeth on a horse."

"I cut it out and pasted it in a scrapbook. Then, I thought I might as well collect some more pictures of the royal tour. So, I filled the scrapbook and entered it in a hobby show at my school."

"I won the prize!"

That scrapbook was lost when her family moved to Toronto.

"I saved some more clippings," she reminisces, "but I didn't really get interested again until 1946. Then, I began to collect pictures of royalty in earnest. Especially of Queen Elizabeth."

From 1946 to the present, this intrepid collector of newspaper and magazine pictures has clipped photos from more than 40 newspapers in Canada and other parts of the Commonwealth. She has also used her scissors on English periodicals and magazines.

And she now has a series of scrapbooks to replace the cherished initial one, filled with pictures that tell a royal story with very few words.

Twelve scrapbooks are neatly arranged to show Elizabeth, the young Princess, before her marriage. Eight tell the story of her life since marriage. Three have been devoted entirely to the picture story of the tour of South Africa, taken by the late King George, Queen Mother Elizabeth and the two teenage Princesses.

Taking the place once held in Fidelis Ainey's regard by the first scrapbook she lost, is a handsome book of 160 pages, filled with pictures from rotogravure sections of newspapers and beautiful colored pages from English magazines.

"It took me 12 hours to paste the pictures in that book, after I had them trimmed and ready," the collector tells you.

To round out the collection,

In a small room of the family living quarters behind her father's hardware store at 1012 Cook Street, Miss Fidelis Ainey has a collection of newspaper pictures of royalty. She is a bookbinder by trade and in Toronto worked in the New Liberty bindery. She smiles when she remembers a staff writer from that magazine telephoning her home to ask for a story on her hobby. "They didn't even know I was right under their noses," she says.

Miss Ainey has a Coronation cup and saucer, given to her by her mother as an Easter gift; a bright silk kerchief scarf with pictures of Elizabeth and Philip printed on it.

There are several albums of recordings; one of the reels and squares danced by Elizabeth and Philip on their visit to Canada, and of the Indian music and dances at Thunderbird Park when the Royal couple were in Victoria. Another album holds the speeches of welcome made in various cities across Canada, including that of Viscount Alexander, then Governor-General of Canada; Prime Minister St. Laurent and Byron Johnson, then premier of British Columbia.

One prize album records the voice of Elizabeth as she spoke at Ottawa and Montreal and the voice of the Duke of Edinburgh as he read the lesson at Christ Church in Vancouver.

There's a Queen Victoria diamond jubilee spoon, too, given

ELIZABETH the Queen

By Marion Crawford
Former Governor of Her Majesty

The intimate biography of Queen Elizabeth, written by her good friend and former governess Marion Crawford, appears exclusively in the Victoria Daily Times in 28 chapters. Out of her 17 years of close association with the royal family, "Crawford" has previously published "The Little Princess" and "Mother and Queen: The Story of the Queen Mary."

XVI.

Every Sunday morning at the Royal Lodge, Windsor, there was an unvarying routine. At 10 minutes to 11 the Royal Family and I would gather in the hall, together with those guests who happened to be staying with them, and walk the 40 yards or more to the little chapel in the park.

The Royal Family had a private pew curtained in such a manner that the congregation could see only their profiles while they were standing. One Sunday morning there was a visiting preacher.

The resident Vicar was then the Rev. Francis Stone, a most cultured man. He was a fine-looking man who gave great distinction to the little chapel.

The visiting preacher was a short, stout man with a shining bald head. He had been delivering his sermon for some minutes when I saw a bee approach him in a wary circle.

It flew round him several times, getting nearer with each circuit. I watched it, fascinated, as it circled him.

Control of Emotions Important

I knew she had been watching with the same fascination as I, but she had already achieved an iron control of her emotions, and all I could see was that the flowers on her hat were quivering with her suppressed laughter.

This control is a noticeable faculty in the Royal Family. In private life they laugh readily. When George, my husband, first came to the Palace and the Princesses were with me, he was struck by the amount of laughing we did—not at him, of course, or at anybody else, but among ourselves.

Through the years little jokes had grown among us. Princess Margaret had only to say, "You remember the day when..." to set us off.

Princess Elizabeth used to laugh very often. I loved to hear her musical, tinkling voice break into an uncontrollable giggle when she was small. Unlike other children with a strong sense of humor, she had to learn to curb it at times, to stifle it almost, from an early age. What can be excused in an ordinary child and attributed to youth might cause a great deal of surprise coming from a Princess.

But sometimes situations occurred—like that of the bee, which were so ludicrous that she had to make an obvious effort to suppress the impulse to laugh. I know how difficult this is to do as I, too, had to learn to control such impulses.

One of the first things which impressed me about the Royal Family when I joined them was their really genuine love of laughter. In those days King George was very boyish and would sometimes laugh in an uninhibited and refreshing way for several minutes at a good joke.

They were always a jolly family, and while they were playing together it was wonderful to see the gusto with which the King entered into the children's games.

That was in their private life. But on more dignified occasions they have a remarkable control over their sense of humor.

On one occasion the Royal Family were entertaining a lady who, I could see, was somewhat embarrassed. She was a large woman, wearing a most peculiar hat which I knew had already caught the Princess's eyes.

She lowered herself into a rather flimsy chair, which to the accompaniment of splintering wood, promptly buckled and collapsed under her.

There are few things funnier to behold—from the onlooker's point of view. But not a flicker of a smile appeared on any of our faces. Not only because of our strict training, but because we were all overwhelmed with sympathy that such an accident should have happened.

To Their Majesties, the King and Queen, and to the Princess, nothing was funny to them when it caused pain and embarrassment.

That was just one occasion on which their control had to be exercised to avoid hurting people's feelings. But we would not have been human if we had not seen the funny side of the incident and laughed wholeheartedly about it when we were alone and the lady had gone.

REMARKABLE JOB

Philip Inspects Canadians

NORTH LUFFENHAM, Eng. (CP)—The Duke of Edinburgh told Canada's No. 1 Fighter Wing Thursday that it's doing a "remarkable job."

Prince Philip addressed an officers' luncheon at this Canadian fighter plane base after a four-hour tour of the sleekest station. He was presented with a silver model of a Sabre jet and heard Group Capt. E. B. Hale of Hamilton, base commander, say the RCAF overseas wants to learn and serve.

The duke said the Queen and he had gained a high opinion of the RCAF during their tour of Canada in 1951. He was "delighted" to find the same "very high standard" at North Luffenham.

Britain was pleased to see Canadian airmen again and was glad Canada was taking part in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in England and on the Continent.

Philip appeared interested in all station activities. He spent eight minutes in the cockpit of a Sabre and FO, Ralph Biggar of Midland, Ont., test pilot who showed the duke the workings, said Philip had told him he'd "like to have a go." The duke, who recently earned his pilot's wings, wore a battle dress uniform of a marshal of the RAF.

While the duke watched from the top of the control tower, 14 Sabres took off in pairs. The four-pilot aerobatic team—FO, Gar Brine, Antigonish, N.S.; FO, Ralph Anpis, McAdam, N.B.; FO, Fern Villeneuve, Ottawa; and FO, John Gaudreau, Chicoutimi, Que.—did rolls over the field in tight formation.

Singapore Plans Greatest Celebration to Mark Crowning

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—Singapore is preparing to celebrate with dragons and fireworks the Coronation of the Queen.

Loyalty and goodwill will be the serious theme of services in the city's churches, mosques, temples and synagogues. But there will be laughter and fun, too.

For this historic week, Singapore's more than 1,000,000 Chinese, Malays, Indian, Cingalese, Eurasians and Europeans are planning the greatest, and the most expensive, celebration in the settlement's history.

It is so expensive that voices were raised in alarm at the cost of one item alone—2,000,000 straits dollars ($658,000) for a street procession of decorated vehicles.

The voices were still when it was explained that public moneys were not involved but that the cost was being met privately by the hundreds of Chinese participating.

This procession, composed of more than 300 decorated vehicles, will stretch two miles through the gaily-festooned city streets. There will be Chinese dragons whose long, writhing silken bodies will be borne on the backs of innumerable coolies.

Out in the sea each night, snaking along the waterfront, will be another dragon, a 400-foot monster in the western seas. Its skin will be made from thousands of yards of colored cloth covered with tiny pieces of metal. Some 8,000 electric bulbs will make its body glow and its 10-foot head will throw out darting tongues of flame and rings of fire. Coronation Day there will be a vast military parade of all services on the city's padang-town green—lying between the sea and the principal city buildings. Free meals will be given to the poor.

At night, rivaling the Chinese procession, will be a great waterfront fireworks display provided by the Indian Chettiar community, many of whom in Singapore are money-lenders. The celebrations will conclude with a feast of color June 6, the Queen's official birthday.

Rabies Outbreak Seems Lessening

EDMONTON (CP).—Federal officials said Thursday that the rabies outbreak appears to be tapering off.

Dr. R. B. Catt, health of animal division veterinarian, said the outbreak that began moving into Alberta early last summer from the Northwest Territories appears to be tapering off, but warned that the outbreak is far from ended.

In Ottawa, Dr. Thomas Charles, federal veterinary director-general, said only two rabies cases have been diagnosed in the West since May 1.

NEATEST TRICKS OF THE WEEK: Fortunes of war and Rocky Marciano were on the side of this corner last Friday when Old Man Time plus a left-right leveled old man Jersey Joe Walcott. Managed to pick up a little lettuce from friends who paid off, registering as much joy as martyrs being tossed to the lions. Kept muttering something about a "short count."

Today we'll have a chance to take a look-see at the scrap in three-dimensional at the Odeon and maybe find out who short-counted whom. Originally, I believe, the fight picture was supposed to be the main feature. But, as you know, the whole thing foisted out at 2:25 of the first round, instead of lasting between 10 and 15 rounds.

Elliot Brown, the Odeon's chief, tells me that the fight will last some 22 minutes.

How even 3-D and polaroid glasses can make a 2.25 fight last this long must be listed as the neatest trick of the week. Maybe they show it to us in normal time, slow motion, backwards and sideways.

But no matter how they show it it should be interesting to see a world heavy-weight brawl in three-dimensional.

Another in the neatest-trick category is how do they manage to get all the good shows in town on the same week-end?

Look at the line-up of lalla-paluzas they booked for us in one fell swoop.

Moulin Rouge, the Oscar-gathering picture starring Jose Ferrer as the brilliant French painter Latouche Lautec, that has drawn all the raves and awards for catching the famed Paris of the 1880's opens at the Odeon Monday.

At the Dominion, starting today, Bette Davis appears in "The Star." For this effort she won Academy Award nomination.

The Royal Theatre opens Monday with the famed extravaganza "Androcles and the Lion."

And the Capitol opens Monday with the first 3-D put out by a major studio—"The House of Wax."

This horror, adult only, picture stars Vincent Price, Frank Lovejoy and Phyllis Kirk. The critics say this one will have us hiding under the seats.

Can hardly wait.

Premier Promises Grant in Lieu of Property Taxes

Premier W. A. C. Bennett promised Victoria a grant in lieu of taxes on government property at a Social Credit-sponsored meeting at the Royal Theatre Thursday night.

The premier did not elaborate, but said:

"We will pay a grant to Victoria so the burden won't rest on the homeowner."

Premier Bennett did not specify an amount.

He indicated the government will make an annual grant to the city to make up for lost revenue on tax-free government property and buildings.

The large amount of Crown property for which the city provides services, but gets no revenue, has been a sore point in civic circles for years.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

By EDWIN JORDAN, MD

Tetanus Toxoid Is the Best Weapon to Fight Lockjaw

Tetanus or lockjaw is a frightening disease which carries with it an extremely high death rate. Fortunately, it can be prevented, however, and today there is little excuse for these deaths to continue.

An antitoxin to combat tetanus has been known for quite a long time. This has undoubtedly been responsible for saving many lives and is quite effective if given soon enough after a tetanus-producing injury. But today a still better method is available.

The germ which causes lockjaw is present almost everywhere on the soil and on objects which have come in contact with the earth. For this reason people in certain occupations are much more likely to acquire the disease than others.

Farmers, people who are much around animals, and those who go barefoot, are among those who fall in this group. Soldiers and sailors in combat, of course, are also heavily exposed to infection.

TOXIN PRODUCED
The germs are carried into the tissues by the penetration of a rusty nail or other object. Here, deep in the tissues, the germs grow and produce a toxin or poison which is carried by the blood stream through the body. After the nerves become affected, this toxin cannot be so successfully combated as at the beginning when the toxin is in the blood stream.

The best weapon to combat tetanus is an artificially produced active immunity or resistance to the poisonous toxin in advance of infection. This is created by giving two or three injections of a tetanus toxoid. Toxoid is the toxin which has been specially treated and which causes the human body to produce its own antitoxin.

The Second World War was the first large-scale conflict in which it was possible to produce this type of resistance to lockjaw by giving all military personnel the injections of toxoid. The results were little short of miraculous and tetanus for the first time in military history became a matter of little medical concern. An astonishingly small number of cases of tetanus occurred in our soldiers and sailors as a result of this measure.

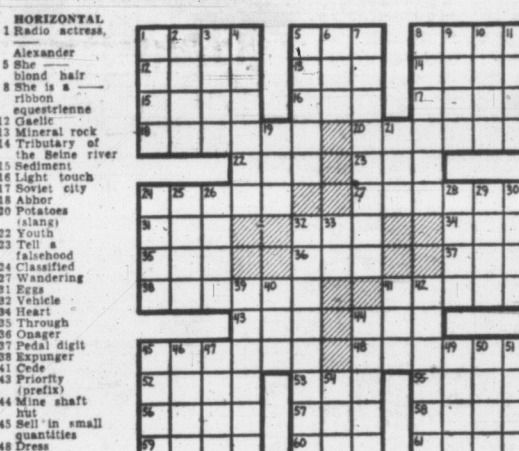

INFANTS GET TOXOID
There is no reason why civilians should not also receive the benefits of tetanus toxoid. All those who are especially liable to infection should receive these injections. In fact, toxoid is often given routinely to infants, frequently combined with diphtheria and whooping cough vaccines.

If someone who has received the toxoid is later injured in such a way as to cause fear of the disease, all that is necessary is to give another injection of the toxoid called a booster dose. The toxoid practically never produces unpleasant reactions and this is another advantage over antitoxin.

He said he felt Canada's minerals should be processed in Canada so the economy of the country would be built up and strengthened.

Mr. Diefenbaker advocated frequent meetings between Churchill and Eisenhower, possibly in Canada, to discuss world problems.

He suggested Quebec City as the place for such meetings, where "during the darkest days of the Second World War Sir Winston met the late President Roosevelt and laid plans for eventual victory."

CHILDREN HAVE FUN

Prince, Princess Enjoy Helping 'Mummy' Practice

LONDON (CP) — Amid mounting tension at Buckingham Palace, Prince Charles and Princess Anne—oblivious to grown-up worries—are learning a new game called "helping mummy with her coronation."

The Queen holds most of her rehearsals for the big moment at the palace, and she likes to have her high-spirited children along to take the edge off what to a certain extent must be an ordeal. Excited comments from four-year-old Charles and 2½-year-old Anne help to brighten these last-minute preparations.

TAKE TRIAL RUNS
When the Queen, in state dress, practices entering and leaving the gilded state coach drawn by eight Windsor greys, Charles and Anne stand quietly by until they are allowed to enter what they call "mummy's golden carriage." Then they ride around the palace courtyard, watching delightedly as mother and father bow and smile to empty palace windows, anticipating the tribute that will follow the carriage on Coronation Day.

Rehearsals now have reached a stepped-up tempo. With the Coronation ceremony just 13

ATTACK TEST CONFINED TO CD WORKERS

Traffic will not be halted and there will be no inconvenience to downtown shoppers during a civil defense "alert" exercise slated for June 20.

Greater Victoria target area director L. G. Hatcher said on Thursday that people will not be cleared from the streets while the theoretical attack is on.

According to plans divulged by Mr. Hatcher today only civil defense personnel will actually be required to share in the drill and people in their homes.

There will be some displays staged, and it is possible, he said, that a street or two may be blocked off.

These plans conflict with suggestions made by provincial CD authorities when the exercise was announced. Although the extent of communities' participation was left to municipal heads, it was emphasized that it was aimed at "training of the general public."

The provincial plan asked that people take cover in the nearest building when the "red alert" is sounded and that police and wardens should assist in clearing streets. Persons in homes, apartments and offices were to go to basement or ground floor and electrical and gas appliances to be turned off.

Department stores, theatres and transit companies were to share in the exercise.

"The CD organization does not need an exercise of this type at this time," said Mr. Hatcher.

Victoria's arrangements for the drill will be prefaced by a week of CD press and radio education though, he added.

It is expected that among other points he will explain Ottawa regulations for sounding of the "alert" and the "all clear." Previous to receipt of these new instructions each CD unit set its own rules.

The "red alert" warning of "imminent attack" will be signified by three minutes of wailing by sirens while the "all clear" will be signified by a group of three, one-minute steady siren blasts.

Time suggested for the alert by provincial officials was 8.30 a.m. standard time to 8.45 a.m.

The practice "alert" has been arranged in conjunction with other B.C. centres and the Pacific Northwest states. Seattle newspapers have mentioned large scale public participation in exercises there.

Big 3 Meeting Must Do Good Says Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — The Big thing has been said in public. Three talks in Bermuda were welcomed here Thursday as a government would be against move that can hardly help but do good for the slightly-battered cause of Western unity.

The only official public comment came from Defense Minister, Claxton as acting prime minister. He said Canada was in formed immediately of the Anglo-Franco-American conference and that "we naturally welcome a meeting which we hope will result in even greater unity among the free nations."

Canada will not take part in the talks among President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and a new French premier. But a round of talks topped off by the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London after the Coronation will have left the Canadian viewpoint on key matters fresh in the minds of all by the time the meeting assembles.

These talks started with the Ottawa visit of French Premier Mayer and his foreign and finance ministers at the end of March. Whether any of these men survive Thursday's ousting of the Mayer government in Paris remains to be seen.

Then there were Prime Minister St. Laurent's talks with Mr. Eisenhower in Washington this month. Mr. St. Laurent now is en route to London.

In both Paris and London there was talk of the Bermuda conference leading to a Big Four meeting with Russia. Washington didn't go that far.

The Canadian attitude on a Western meeting with Russia is a cautious one and little if any.

Cash prizes, honor certificates and trophies will be awarded to competitors at the exhibition, sponsored by the B.C. Indian Arts and Welfare Society.

Among the awards offered is the $75 memorial art scholarship, given in memory of native Indians who lost their lives in the Second World War. The scholarship is open to all Indians.

Property Owners Petition Council

Dr. Stanley F. Miles and 20 other property owners of Brookleigh Road petitioned City Council Thursday to purchase 20.7 acres of city property at the north end of Elk Lake to prevent its use for "garbage dumping and wild drinking parties."

Petitioners complained the property is abused by the public whose activities constitute a nuisance.

What is ALTERNATIVE VOTING and how does it work?

Alternative voting, which will be used in the coming Provincial Election, permits the individual voter to continue to participate in the selection of candidates of his or her choice, until one candidate on the ballot is elected by an absolute majority vote, even should their favourite candidate be eliminated in prior counting.

To vote this way is simplicity itself . . . it is just a case of using the common numerals 1 - 2 - 3 - 4, or as far as you want to go up to the number of candidates listed on your ballot.

Beside the name of your first choice you mark the number 1 . . . then beside the name of your second choice mark 2 . . . beside the name of your third choice mark 3 . . . and so on.

If you "plump," which means, if you mark your ballot for only one candidate, your plumping does not give your favorite candidate one bit of advantage more than if you mark a choice for each of the others . . . there is nothing gained, but you do deprive yourself, should your first choice be eliminated, of your privilege to further express your wishes in the continued counting, which may be necessary in order to establish which candidate enjoys an absolute majority vote.

UNDER THE OLD FORM OF VOTING

There may have been two candidates who each ranked high in the choice of the voters in your riding.

At the same time there may have been a third candidate who was not desired by so many, but who received a goodly number of votes.

When the majority of voters divided their votes between the two most desired candidates, it frequently resulted in the election of the candidate who the majority of voters voted AGAINST . . . one who was desired by a minority of the voters.

BUT

UNDER ALTERNATIVE VOTING

You can vote for your favorite candidate . . . and then go beyond that . . . you can still have another choice . . . and even another, to the number of candidates on your ballot.

You can say to yourself . . . "If my first choice doesn't make it, then I want to vote for my second choice" . . . so that's just what you do . . . you vote 2 . . . and if that one doesn't make it, then your third choice enjoys your support . . . and so on.

The alternate ballot makes certain that no one is elected who is not supported by more voters than all of his competitors added together.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST
SATURDAY, MAY 23, 1953

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—Wind up all mutual obligations during the early day, when there is less animosity from opponents and more support from partners. P.M., you can relax. Keep calm, pleasant.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—A.M., you enjoy making surrounding and wardrobe more attractive; do so early in day. P.M., try to keep on an even keel despite frustrating conditions.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—Spend early part of day improving appearance with beauty treatments, etc. Then contact others to show them your inspired ideas. Enjoy those things that always give pleasure.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21)—Early morning brings increased ability to find release from problems. Obtain good ideas from experts in all lines. P.M., be very careful in matters that pertain to your credit.

Leo (July 22 to August 21)—Rise and shine early. Use all that energy to go after long desired wish. Get out and visit understanding friends who can give you both emotional and material security.

Virgo (August 22 to September 22)—Early morning will be fine for setting out tools and making repairs on property, beautifying and improving your whole environment. P.M., danger on highways—be careful.

Libra (September 23 to October 22)—A.M., look after all matters that concern your happiness, success. Bring all ideas up to date. Take no liberties with partners, or real trouble follows. Be pleasant.

Scorpio (October 23 to November 21)—Confer with intimates for making improvements in present affairs. Make thorough study of all reports, statements, financial matters. P.M., get out and have some fun.

Sagittarius (November 22 to December 21)—Be ready early in day to follow up the opportunity presented to you for attaining innermost desires. P.M., show consideration to those in high places.

Capricorn (December 22 to January 20)—That enormous pile of monotonous work will go down fast if you get after it. Stay away from goading persons who keep you from doing your work.

Aquarius (January 21 to February 19)—Visit loved friends and relatives who bring out your best qualities. Show them that you care. This is a good time for trip you've been wanting to take.

Pisces (February 20 to March 20)—Give serious thought to present relationship with family members, both in emotional and material matters. It's important that you be really co-operative.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST
SUNDAY, MAY 24, 1953

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—Start early to plan goals necessary to future well-being. Talk with close friends who can help you. Then push all activities in directions indicated.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—Combine new systems with best methods of past experience for success in undertakings. P.M., follow proven principles when deciding on sources for additional income.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—This is your day, so don't lose a moment of it. Go after what you want most. Day is fine for going on trip. Enjoy yourself.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21)—You have been looking after needs and wishes of others for a long time. Today, get away on your own and decide what you want family to do for you. Let them know tactfully.

Leo (July 22 to August 21)—Friends and backers who have been assisting you now need your support and understanding. Try to lighten burden of others today.

Virgo (August 22 to September 22)—Look about you for more enjoyable pursuits. Make new friends. Relax your mind, which has been working overtime trying to find ways of lightening duties.

Libra (September 23 to October 22)—Your particular aims and wishes have good chance of realization under today's influences, so expand in all directions. Emotionally and materially. Remain positive in outlook.

Scorpio (October 23 to November 21)—Answers to problems that have puzzled you are now at your fingertips. Reliable intuition points out ways to better yourself financially, spiritually and emotionally.

Sagittarius (November 22 to December 21)—Make new associations today. Your high aims are also practical and sensible, so use forceful thought, now yours, to progress toward your goals.

Capricorn (December 22 to January 20)—Try not to hold resentment toward those who expect a great deal from you but who do not reciprocate. This charitable view makes routine chores much easier.

Aquarius (January 21 to February 19)—You are filled with an ecstatic sense of well-being. Get out on trips where you will make new contacts that will contribute to this feeling. Good day for romance.

Virgo (August 22 to September 22)—Look about you for more enjoyable pursuits. Make new friends. Relax your mind, which has been working overtime trying to find ways of lightening duties.

Libra (September 23 to October 22)—Your particular aims and wishes have good chance of realization under today's influences, so expand in all directions. Emotionally and materially. Remain positive in outlook.

Scorpio (October 23 to November 21)—Answers to problems that have puzzled you are now at your fingertips. Reliable intuition points out ways to better yourself financially, spiritually and emotionally.

Sagittarius (November 22 to December 21)—Make new associations today. Your high aims are also practical and sensible, so use forceful thought, now yours, to progress toward your goals.

Capricorn (December 22 to January 20)—Try not to hold resentment toward those who expect a great deal from you but who do not reciprocate. This charitable view makes routine chores much easier.

Aquarius (January 21 to February 19)—You are filled with an ecstatic sense of well-being. Get out on trips where you will make new contacts that will contribute to this feeling. Good day for romance.

Pisces (February 20 to March 20)—Conditions today restrict your activities to handling family obligations and chores. Spend evening working out economical plan for coming week.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST
WEDNESDAY, MAY 27, 1953

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—Start early to plan goals necessary to future well-being. Talk with close friends who can help you. Then push all activities in directions indicated.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—Combine new systems with best methods of past experience for success in undertakings. P.M., follow proven principles when deciding on sources for additional income.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—This is your day, so don't lose a moment of it. Go after what you want most. Day is fine for going on trip. Enjoy yourself.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21)—You have been looking after needs and wishes of others for a long time. Today, get away on your own and decide what you want family to do for you. Let them know tactfully.

Leo (July 22 to August 21)—Friends and backers who have been assisting you now need your support and understanding. Try to lighten burden of others today.

Virgo (August 22 to September 22)—Look about you for more enjoyable pursuits. Make new friends. Relax your mind, which has been working overtime trying to find ways of lightening duties.

Libra (September 23 to October 22)—Your particular aims and wishes have good chance of realization under today's influences, so expand in all directions. Emotionally and materially. Remain positive in outlook.

Scorpio (October 23 to November 21)—Answers to problems that have puzzled you are now at your fingertips. Reliable intuition points out ways to better yourself financially, spiritually and emotionally.

DODGE

powered by the Mighty new 140 h.p. red ram V8 engine

Get set for the driving thrill of your life... with the mighty new 140 h.p. Red Ram V-8 engine of the famous "dome-shaped" combustion chamber design. This new engine packs more power punch per cubic inch displacement. It brings you the triple power advantages of "dome-shaped" combustion chamber... short stroke design... high lift lateral valves. More fuel energy goes into power, less is wasted in heat and friction. The Dodge Coronet V-8 is the lowest priced car with this modern engine design.

Britain Asks Civilians to Leave Egypt

LONDON (AP)—Britain has ordered a diplomatic trouble-shooter to Egypt as an "emergency measure" and confirmed that non-essential British civilians have been urged to leave the tense Middle East country.

The Foreign Office announced Thursday that Robert Hankey, 48-year-old minister to Hungary and an expert on Middle Eastern affairs, will fly to Cairo next Saturday. He will take over temporarily from Sir Ralph Stevenson, present ambassador to Egypt, who is returning to Britain on sick leave June 1.

CRISIS DEEPENS

There was no indication as to how long Hankey would remain in Cairo. He is going there during a deepening crisis between Britain and Egypt, which has threatened further nationalist demonstrations against Britain's big garrison in the Suez Canal zone.

The Foreign Office also said the British embassy in Cairo has advised some 4,000 British civilians in Egypt to leave the country if they have no pressing business there.

Times Crossword Contest $100 in Cash

(No winner last week.)

THE RULES

Solve the clues as you would any crossword puzzle. Clip out the desired word and mail it to The Times Crossword, c/o Victoria Daily Times. Extra entries may be submitted on facsimiles of the same form, the same size. But NO MORE than TEN facsimiles will be accepted with each original.

All answers must be received by the morning mail of next Wednesday. Be sure to clip on the dotted line. This is for the convenience of tallying entries.

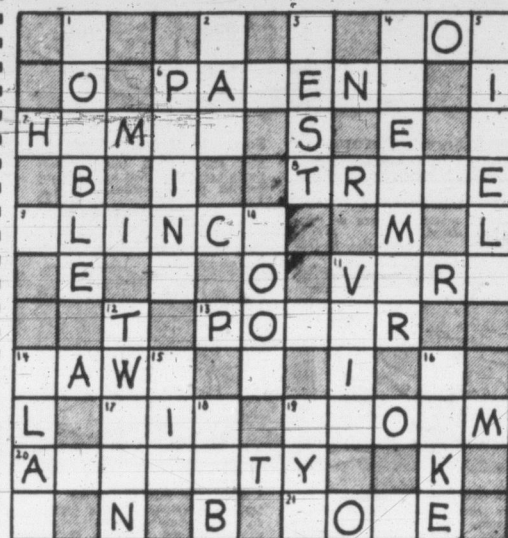

EARLY MAILING WILL BE APPRECIATED

The answer will be printed in next Thursday's paper and the winners the same day. It will be a good idea to keep a record of your solution to compare it with the answer.

If more than one contestant succeeds in answering the puzzle correctly the prize money will be divided among those having the correct solutions. If no one succeeds in answering the puzzle correctly the prize will be added to next week's puzzle prize money and so on until a winner is obtained.

Study the clues carefully before you write down your answers. There is always one answer which is the best. The decision of the judges in the contest will be final and all contestants taking part agree to abide by the decision.

PROGRESS OF EVEREST PARTY STILL UNKNOWN

NEW DELHI (AP)—Backward Himalayan communications hid the whereabouts today of a team of British mountain-climbers trying to scale the unconquered crest of Mount Everest, world's tallest peak. Mountaineering experts here speculated the team may already have conquered—or failed to top—the 29,000-foot peak.

Col. John Hunt and his 14-man team reached their base camp 18,000 feet up the mountain more than four weeks ago. Their final climb was due to begin May 15. The team's only means of communicating with the world is by relays of native runners.

In a broadcast to the expedition Thursday night, the Indian government radio warned of increasing cold in the Everest region and temperatures of 20 degrees below zero.

Bennett Backs Money Reform

Big Audience Hears Premier
Support Financial Policies

By GORDON FORBES, Times Political Reporter

Premier W. A. C. Bennett, fighting persistent hecklers in his record Royal Theatre audience (1,500 inside, 700 turned away and 300 listening from outside), Thursday night came out in support of Social Credit federal monetary reform principles.

The premier made the statement in reply to a question put by Oak Bay Tory Frank Partridge who was roundly booed.

"What are your own personal views on the monetary theories and techniques of Douglas Social Credit?" he asked. "After considerable build up, the premier said he believed in the Social Credit principles. The basic federal principle was monetary reform, he said.

HECKLERS IN ACTION
"But we're not a funny money crowd. We're the soundest party in the whole land," cried Premier Bennett.

Premier Bennett first said he would have been disappointed if Mr. Partridge hadn't asked that question.

He started to say this was not a provincial matter and some one shouted:

"Don't sidestep."

"I'm going to answer, don't rush me," replied the premier. "We know these are only planted political trick questions, but I'll answer them."

See other stories, picture page 12.

"Get on with it," a heckler said. "You're just like the opposition in the House," came back the premier. "I smile at them and they get mad."

"Answer the question," the heckler insisted.

"Social Credit believes in fair treatment to all and special

privileges to none," started the premier again.

"That's Socialism," the same heckler shouted.

He explained there must be enough medium of exchange to distribute properly the production of industry. Social Credit, he said, thinks it's ridiculous to see farm produce burned, warehouses filled with stock which can't be sold, and mass unemployment.

"All we need is to have enough purchasing power in the hands of the public," he said.

It is all wrong, he felt, that the country has purchasing power during wars but not in peace time.

"We oppose that. We say there must be enough exchange in the country. We're not a funny-money crowd."

MORE BOOS

Mr. Partridge tired of the premier's explanation and said he "objected."

"You can object as much as you like," snapped the premier. "I've got the floor. Can't take it, eh?"

"What party does Partridge represent?" asked a man in the front row.

"He the man who beat Anscomb..." said the premier.

This brought on more boos.

New Doukhobor Plan Announced by Govt.

Get Tough Plan for Lawbreaking
Sect Features Seven-Point Program

Adoption of a firm "one law for all" policy to deal with lawbreaking sects of B.C.'s Doukhobor population was announced today by Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

"The days of fooling around with the unlawful Doukhobors are over," Premier Bennett said.

Here are the highlights of the government policy:

1—Extension of the franchise to Doukhobors (at the fall session).

2—Resale of land to orthodox and independent Doukhobors—lost in the 30's through unemployment of mortgages.

3—Cancellation of drivers' licenses of lawbreaking Doukhobors.

4—Recognition of Doukhobor form of marriage, which is merely a declaration before the elders of the community.

5—Establishment of a continuing commission in July on Doukhobor affairs, as announced in the Legislature, to work with the existing consultative committee.

6—All Doukhobor children to be compelled to attend school.

7—Doukhobors must register births, marriages and all vital statistics.

Premier Bennett also announced Attorney-General Robert Bonner has asked the federal government to reimburse B.C.

Children Sing in Loyalty to Old Empire Ties

Sixteen hundred youthful voices were raised in praise of Queen and country this morning on Legislative Building Lawn. Attending IODE Empire Day services were representative groups from each school, sea and air cadets, Scouts, Cubs and Guides. Three bands, all youngsters, attended. Ceremony ended in IODE flag-bearing parade to monument of Queen Victoria. (See story, Page 15.)

Dulles Puts Damper On Big 4 Conference

Red Aggression
Will Block Any
High-Level Parley

By DONALD J. GONZALES

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower's unity-promoting conference with British and French leaders next month will not lead to a Big-Four meeting with Russia while the Communists are promoting aggression, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles made clear today.

Dulles chilled hopes of at least British Prime Minister Winston Churchill for a later Big-Power conference with Russia in talking to reporters at a news conference in New Delhi, India.

"I doubt that any important results could come out of a high-level conference which included the leaders of Soviet Russia so long as the Soviet bloc is promoting war and aggression in Korea, against Laos and in Indo-China, and as long as in Europe they refuse to withdraw occupation troops from a small, inoffensive country like Austria," Dulles said.

CONCRETE EVIDENCE
That is the theme that has been voiced by Mr. Eisenhower.

The President wants concrete evidence of good faith actions to promote world peace on the part of Russia before sitting down with Soviet leaders.

Administration officials said Mr. Eisenhower's primary purpose in getting together with British and French leaders in Bermuda next month will be to forge three-power unity where dangerous splits are developing.

He wants to harmonize American-British-French views on key world issues.

The administration is dead set against risking a Big-Four conference in which the Russians could exploit Allied disunity and confusion.

From now until the Big-Three meeting sometime after June 15 the Russians will have an opportunity to prove with actions such as ending the Korean impasse that a Big-Four meeting also would help promote world peace.

The administration's cautious stand against advance commitments for a meeting with the Russians is a theme that has been reached.

RUSSIANS NOT HOPEFUL OF EARLY BIG 4 PARLEY

MOSCOW (UP)—Diplomatic sources appeared optimistic today over the possibility of an eventual Big-Power meeting that would include the Soviet Union.

However, they expressed doubt the meeting will be held in the near future.

Observers said that as long as President Eisenhower insists on fulfillment of certain conditions it is not likely Russia will agree to take part in a meeting.

(Mr. Eisenhower said in Washington last week he wanted concrete evidence of good faith from Moscow before agreeing to sit with Kremlin leaders.)

(Last April 16, Mr. Eisenhower told the American Society of Newspaper Editors in an address on U.S. foreign policy that the Soviet peace offensive should be backed up with deeds and not words.)

Editorials in Pravda and Izvestia already have indicated the Kremlin would not accept an invitation to a meeting with the western powers as long as any conditions were set forth.

Brief Visit

EXTERNAL AFFAIRS Minister Lester B. "Mike" Pearson, and Mrs. Pearson, spent 15 minutes at Patricia Bay Airport today in stopover on way to Seattle. While picture was made as he relaxed in TCA aircraft, he expressed optimism in outcome of Big Three conference.

(See story Page 15.)

$30 Pay Boost, Other Benefits Reported Gained by Coast Seamen

VANCOUVER, B.C. (BUP)—The AFL Seafarers' International Union expressed jubilation today at an eleven-hour agreement that averted a strike by 700 seamen against three major steamship companies serving the B.C. coast.

Terms were not disclosed, but a source said the union gained $30 monthly pay boost, retroactive to June 1, 1952, and won its long fight for union security and overtime benefits.

The agreement was hammered out in Montreal at a meeting of union officials and representatives of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Steamships, Ltd. A strike had been scheduled to start at midnight Saturday, and more than 20 coastal steamers, which carry passengers and supplies to Vancouver Island and up-coast points, would have been idled.

The union withdrew its strike deadline after receiving word from Montreal that "a mutually satisfactory" agreement had been reached.

On a flying visit to Canada on his way to the Coronation and the conference, Mr. Holland expressed the hope the meeting would serve to "clarify" Commonwealth views on a number of world issues.

He talked to newspaper men at a press conference sandwiched in between the laying of a wreath at the National War Memorial and a meeting with Transport Minister Chevrier.

He cited developments in connection with the Korean truce negotiations and the Southeast Asia situation generally as two topics calling for discussion.

Commonwealth countries including Canada recently made representations to the United States on the way the truce negotiations were being handled by United States officials. Prime Minister St. Laurent said here Wednesday Canada expressed hope there would be no substantial departure from the terms of a United Nations resolution dealing with prisoner exchange.

Mr. Holland indicated that problems of Commonwealth trade would not be prime issues at the meeting.

Area One of Disaster Claxton Informed

SARNIA, Ont. (BUP)—Troops patrolled debris-filled streets to prevent looting today as a tornado that cut a 70-mile swath of death and destruction whirled east over Lake Ontario and dissipated into thunder showers.

There were at least five known dead and 200 injured in southwestern Ontario and eastern Michigan. Thirty-nine persons remained hospitalized, 15 here and 24 in neighboring Port Huron, Mich.

(Meanwhile Acting Prime Minister Brooke Claxton was asked today to declare tornado-ravaged southwestern Ontario a national disaster area and allocate funds of torn homes, barns and stores.)

The request was wired to Ottawa from London, Ont., by Harold White, Progressive Conservative member of parliament for Middlesex riding. He suggested that part of a $1,500,000 fund for national disasters be set aside for tornado aid, particularly hard-hit Sarnia.)

The howling black funnel was the third tornado to hit into Canada since weather records were started 75 years ago. The Weather Bureau warned that a new storm centre over Kansas "might very well" turn into a second twister but doubted whether it could rip north of the border.

Sarnia, a city of 40,000 and the country's biggest oil refining centre, took the brunt of the tornado after it leaptfrogged the St. Clair River and struck the downtown area with full fury.

A few minutes earlier, it had skipped across flat farmlands in Michigan, picked up the rear end of a freight train and shook it like a toy, and chewed up a residential section of Port Huron nine blocks wide and 16 blocks long.

The twister roared through here in three minutes, injuring 100 persons, and barreled north-eastward to kill a man, his daughter and an elderly spinster in the London area. One man was killed and another 100 persons were injured in the Port Huron district.

Property damage couldn't be estimated accurately. A police officer said it could amount to a new storm centre over Kansas "any figure between $2,000,000 and $10,000,000."

Sarnia Placed Under Military Law

Sarnia was under military law. The air force sent 100 men from the Centralia base and the army dispatched 100 soldiers from Camp Ipperwash to aid in the emergency. Another 100 soldiers from London were expected later today to guard gaping storefronts.

Acting Mayor Clayton A. Saylor read the Riot Act shortly before midnight to clear panicked citizens from the rubble-strewn streets. He said the storm was "one of the worst disasters that has ever hit this part of the country."

The twister hit with devastating suddenness at the dinner hour.

Simon Thompson, 50, Reeve of East William Township, and his six-year-old daughter, Dorothy, were killed by flying debris as their home was smashed at the hamlet of Springbank, about 25 miles northeast of London.

Sarah McIntosh, an 80-year-old spinster was killed in her yard in the same hamlet. Two nephews escaped.

No fatalities were reported here but troops, citizens and police from Ontario and Michigan worked all night to clear away the rubble. Front and Christina Streets, the main thoroughfares, were opened up early this morning by crews that toiled all night with bulldozers and shovels under the glare of emergency floodlights.

The storm missed multi-million-dollar refineries owned by Imperial Oil and Canadian Oil companies. The Polymer Corporation, the world's largest synthetic rubber producer, also escaped damage.

Eyewitness Describes Chaos

By R. J. ANDERSON

SARNIA, Ont. (CP)—I picked my way along Sarnia's Front Street Thursday night.

In the midnight darkness six hours after a tornado had struck this bustling industrial city, it was an adventure.

In the eerie light of flares and portable floodlights, steel-helmeted workmen were silhouetted as they labored to clear away the worst of the debris.

Occasionally masonry would crash to the pavement as demolition crews tore away a wall or projection that threatened to collapse.

It was so quiet. There were no shouts of workmen—just the crash of a cornice or a metal sign being torn away.

At midnight the roadway and pavement were all but cleared. The volunteers had done a quick job of piling the rubble for the trucks to cart away.

Glass crunched underfoot. There was not an unbroken window for three blocks.

Gaping windows of evacuated apartments a block away showed stores spoked mutely of 30 seconds of tornado destruction. No doubt the interiors were ruined—armed soldiers prevented entry to make sure.

I walked down the centre of the street—as far as possible from tottering walls on either side. Every hundred feet or so I was required to present credentials to prove a right to be where Sarnia's citizens were prohibited from entering.

The Vendome Hotel at Front and Cromwell was a ruin. The roof and top floor had been torn away. Every window had not merely been broken—the frames had been blown away clear to the red-brick facing.

Streams of water ran from what had been a doorway of a large furniture store. The automatic sprinkler system had gone into operation during the storm. The stock seemed ruined.

So it went for four blocks, perhaps the hardest hit area of the city. Metal street signs had been cut off as though by a sharp knife, so clean was the break. Traffic-sign supports were bent. Power lines—dead now with living service gone—overhung the street.

It was a ghastly sight. To this observer, the official estimate of perhaps $3,000,000 damage looks much too low.

19 Injured in London Area

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The tornado which spun through southwestern Ontario Thursday night injured at least 19 persons—some severely—in the London area and caused considerable property damage.

Doctors and nurses at St. Joseph's Hospital here said some of the injured were so badly hurt that they could not be X-rayed. Others were rushed immediately to emergency operating rooms.

The injured were driven from the stricken areas by doctors, with a possible skull injury.

OPERATING ROOM NURSE FEATURED IN WEEKEND

Victoria's Royal Jubilee Hospital has the place of honor in Weekend Magazine appearing in the Victoria Times tomorrow.

The main article in the magazine is a photo story entitled "Operating-Room Nurse," featuring Doreen Richmond of the hospital staff and her work as an instrument and "scrub" nurse in the operating room at the big institution.

Phone Workers Vote on Wage Boost

VANCOUVER (CP)—Four thousand employees of the B.C. Telephone Company are voting on a 4-per-cent wage increase offer by the company.

The offer was placed before the workers by the Federation of Telephone Workers without recommendation. Results of the ballot will be known in about 10 days.

4 Killed in New Casualty List

OTTAWA (CP)—A Korean casualty list today included four men killed and six wounded in action. The last list was issued Wednesday.

Three of the dead were previously reported missing, believed prisoners of war. The other was previously reported missing, believed killed. One of the wounded had been wounded once before.

Two Reported Drowned in Kootenay

VANCOUVER (CP)—A ham radio report picked up here has indicated two persons may have lost their lives in a sudden squall on Kootenay Lake in the British Columbia interior.

An amateur radio operator at Blonell, on the east shore of the lake, said a couple identified only as Mr. and Mrs. Mandley were fishing from a small power launch when the storm blew up. When the storm subsided the craft had disappeared.

Murder Hearing in Seaman's Death

VANCOUVER (CP)—Robert Kuss, crew member of the tug Lapointe, told in police court today of an argument which preceded the death of Sylvio Zanatta, 39-year-old oiler aboard the tug.

Kuss was testifying at the preliminary hearing of Ernest Graham, another member of the crew, charged with murder in connection with Zanatta's death.

Atom Physicist Guilty of Perjury

NEW YORK (UP)—William Perle, electronics expert and former Columbia University physics teacher, was found guilty today on two counts of perjury in connection with testimony about his acquaintance with atomic spies Julius Rosenberg and Morton Sobell.

New Doukhobor Plan
Announced by Govt.Get Tough Plan for Lawbreaking
Sect Features Seven-Point Program

Adoption of a firm "one law for all" policy to deal with lawbreaking sects of B.C.'s Doukhobor population was announced today by Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

"The days of fooling around with the unlawful Doukhobors are over," Premier Bennett said.

Here are the highlights of the government policy:

- 1—Extension of the franchise to Doukhobors (at the fall session).
 - 2—Resale of land to orthodox and independent Doukhobors—lost in the 30's through unemployment of mortgages.
 - 3—Cancellation of drivers' licenses of lawbreaking Doukhobors.
 - 4—Recognition of Doukhobor form of marriage, which is merely a declaration before the elders of the community.
 - 5—Establishment of a continuing commission in July on Doukhobor affairs, as announced in the Legislature, to work with the existing consultative committee.
 - 6—All Doukhobor children to be compelled to attend school.
 - 7—Doukhobors must register births, marriages and all vital statistics.
- Premier Bennett also announced Attorney-General Robert Bonner has asked the federal government to reimburse B.C. for all "extraordinary expenditures" in dealing with the Doukhobor problem.

The amount this year, he said, has been $300,000.

Mr. Bonner has asked Federal Justice Minister Garson to send a representative to B.C. June 15 to discuss the general problems with him (Bonner).

One of the main topics for discussion would be B.C.'s contention that the federal government should "accept in principle the notion of complete responsibility for such financial and international arrangements which might prove to be necessary to expedite the emigration" of the Sons of Freedom from Canada.

Premier Bennett evidently intends to use the threat of drivers' license cancellation to whip into line many of the members of the troublesome Sons of Freedom sect.

Money ReformBig Audience Hears Premier
Support Financial Policies

By GORDON FORBES, Times Political Reporter
Premier W. A. C. Bennett, fighting persistent hecklers in his record Royal Theatre audience (1,500 inside, 700 turned away and 300 listening from outside), Thursday night came out in support of Social Credit federal monetary reform principles.

The premier made the statement in reply to a question put by Oak Bay Tory Frank Partridge who was roundly booed.

"What are your own personal views on the monetary theories and techniques of Douglas Social Credit?" he asked.

After considerable build up, the premier said he believed in the Social Credit principles. The basic federal principle was monetary reform, he said.

"But we're not a funny money crowd. We're the soundest party in the whole land," cried Premier Bennett.

Premier Bennett first said he would have been disappointed if Mr. Partridge hadn't asked that question.

He started to say this was not a provincial matter and someone shouted:

"Don't sidestep."
"I'm going to answer, don't rush me," replied the premier.

"We know these are only planted political trick questions, but I'll answer them."

"Get on with it," a heckler said.

"You're just like the opposition in the House," came back the premier. "I smile at them and they get mad."

"Answer the question," the heckler insisted.

"Social Credit believes in fair treatment to all and special privileges to none," started the premier again.

"That's Socialism," the same heckler shouted.

"He explained there must be enough medium of exchange to distribute properly the production of industry. Social Credit, he said, thinks it's ridiculous to see farm produce burned, warehouses filled with stock which can't be sold, and mass unemployment."

"All we need is to have enough purchasing power in the hands of the public," he said.

It is all wrong, he felt, that the country has purchasing power during wars but not in peace time.

"We oppose that. We say there must be enough exchange in the country. We're not a funny-money crowd."

MORE BOOS
Mr. Partridge tired of the premier's explanation and said he "objected."

"You can object as much as you like," snapped the premier.

"I've got the floor. Can't take it, eh?"

"What party does Partridge represent?" asked a man in the front row.

"He the man who beat Anscomb," said the premier.

PROGRESS OF EVEREST
PARTY STILL UNKNOWN

NEW DELHI (AP)—Backward Himalayan communications hid the whereabouts today of a team of British mountain climbers trying to scale the unconquered crest of Mount Everest, world's tallest peak. Mountaineering experts here speculated the team may already have conquered—or failed to top—the 29,000-foot peak.

Col. John Hunt and his 14-man team reached their base camp 18,000 feet up the mountain more than four weeks ago. Their final climb was due to begin May 15. The team's only means of communicating with the world is by relays of native runners.

In a broadcast to the expedition Thursday night, the Indian government radio warned of increasing cold in the Everest region and temperatures of 20 degrees below zero.

Dulles Puts Damper
On Big 4 ConferenceRussian Promotion of Aggression Will Block High-Level Parley at Present

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower's unity-promoting conference with British and French leaders next month will not lead to a Big-Four meeting with Russia while the Communists are promoting aggression, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles made clear today.

Dulles chilled hopes of at least British Prime Minister Winston Churchill for a later Big-Power conference with Russia in talking to reporters at a news conference in New Delhi, India.

"I doubt that any important results could come out of a high-level conference which included the leaders of Soviet Russia so long as the Soviet bloc is promoting war and aggression in Korea, against Laos and in Indo-China, and as long as in Europe they refuse to withdraw occupation troops from a small, inoffensive country like Austria," Dulles said.

CONCRETE EVIDENCE
That is the theme that has been voiced by Mr. Eisenhower.

From now until the Big-Three meeting sometime after June 15, the Russians will have an opportunity to prove with acts—such as ending the Korean impasse—that a Big-Four meeting also would help promote world peace.

The administration's cautious stand against advance commitments for a meeting with the VANCOUVER, B.C. (BUP)—The AFL Seafarers' International Union expressed jubilation today at an eleven-hour agreement that averted a strike by 700 seamen against three major steamship companies serving the B.C. coast.

Terms were not disclosed, but a source said the union gained $30 monthly pay boost, retroactive to June 1, 1952, and won its long fight for union security and overtime benefits.

The agreement was hammered out in Montreal at a meeting of union officials and representatives of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Steamships, and Union Steamships.

Ltd. A strike had been scheduled to start at midnight Saturday, and more than 20 coastal steamers, which carry passengers and supplies to Vancouver Island and up-coast points, would have been idled.

The union withdrew its strike deadline after receiving word from Montreal that "a mutually satisfactory" agreement had been reached.

Terms of the settlement will be released upon receipt of official papers by mail from Montreal. The union scheduled a membership meeting for Monday night, when the seamen involved in the dispute will vote on the settlement.

Damage in Millions;
Wide Area Devastated

SARNIA, Ont. (BUP)—Troops patrolled debris-filled streets to prevent looting today as a tornado that cut a 70-mile swath of death and destruction whirled east over southern Ontario and dissipated into thunder showers.

There were at least five known dead and 200 injured in southwestern Ontario and eastern Michigan. Thirty-nine persons remained hospitalized, 15 here and 24 in neighboring Port Huron, Mich.

(Meanwhile Acting Prime Minister Brooke Claxton was asked today to declare tornado-ravaged southwestern Ontario a national disaster area and allocate funds of torn homes, barns and stores.)

The request was wired to Ottawa from London, Ont., by Harold White, Progressive Conservative member of parliament for Middlesex riding. He suggested that part of a $1,500,000 fund for national disasters be set aside for tornado aid, particularly hard-hit Sarnia.)

The howling black funnel was the third tornado to hit into Canada since weather records were started 75-years ago. The Weather Bureau warned that a new storm centre over Kansas "might very well" turn into a second twister but doubted whether it could rip north of the border.

Sarnia, a city of 40,000 and the country's biggest oil refining centre, took the brunt of the tornado after it leapt from the St. Clair River and struck the downtown area with full fury.

A few minutes earlier, it had skipped across flat farmlands in Michigan, picked up the rear end of a freight train and shook it like a toy, and chewed up a residential section of Port Huron nine blocks wide and 16 blocks long.

The twister roared through here in three minutes, injuring 100 persons, and barreled north-eastward to kill a man, his daughter and an elderly spinster in the London area. One man was killed and another 100 persons were injured in the Port Huron district.

Property damage couldn't be estimated accurately. A police officer said it could amount to "any figure between $2,000,000 and $10,000,000."

The twister hit with devastating suddenness at the dinner hour.

Simon Thompson, 50, Reeve of East William Township, and his six-year-old daughter, Dorothy, were killed by flying debris as their home was undertakers and private automobiles.

One, critically hurt woman, Mrs. Annie Thompson of Parkhill, was not aware early today that her husband and six-year-old daughter were killed in the storm.

Mrs. Thompson's husband, Simon, 50, Reeve of East William Township, was one of five persons killed in Ontario during the twister. Her daughter, Dorothy, was also killed in the family's rubble home at Springbank. Another daughter, Ruth, 13, was brought to hospital here with a possible skull injury.

The injured were driven from the stricken areas by doctors.

Doctors and nurses at St. Joseph's Hospital here said some of the injured were so badly hurt that they could not be X-rayed. Others were rushed immediately to emergency operating rooms.
